Probe Opens as 4 Die In Rest Home Fire

AGED PERSONS SUFFOCATE IN DENSE SMOKE

Fire Marshal Charges Racket Operates in Homes for Ohio's Infirm.

STATE QUIZ ORDERED

Officer Promises Extensive Investigation; 6 Others Injured in Blaze.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The state fire marshal's department ordered a statewide investigation of rest homes for the aged today as the result of a Columbus rest home fire that caused the deaths of four persons and less injury to a half-dozen others last night.

Assistant Fire Marshal O. M. McClure, who called for the inquiry, declared, "the rest home situation has become a racket throughout the state, and I am going into the matter fully."

Blamed on Furnace.

Last night's fire in Columbus' north end was blamed on an overheated furnace.

The dead were: Mrs. Adelia G. Miles, 84; George Clark, 85; Mrs. George Miller, 67, and William Sisk, 71, all of Columbus. They died in University hospital of smoke suffocation.

Mrs. Bertha Kern, director of the Kern rest home and who identified the dead, said that Mrs. Elizabeth Wolcott, 76, Mrs. Alice Wirick, 60, and Mrs. Ida Clayton were overcome by smoke, as was Mrs. Helen Wells, a nurse.

A fireman, Melvin Hess, suffered a broken arm. Others were injured to lesser degrees.

Water Damage High.

Fire Chief Ed Welch said greatest damage to the three-story frame building in the north end residential district of Columbus was due to smoke and water.

He said the aged persons were trapped upstairs. All were rescued, and several were given oxygen treatments by the firemen in the yard of the home.

Westinghouse Beats Government To It On 40-Hour Week

Complying immediately with final provisions of the Labor Standards act which do not go into effect until 1940, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company announced today it had provided overtime pay for salaried non-exempt employes working more than 40 hours.

The plan, retroactive to Oct. 24, will affect about 825 employes at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, company officials here said today. Approximately 12,000 Westinghouse salaried employes in the nation will come under provisions, of the act which became effective Oct. 24.

Announcement of immediate compliance with provisions of the act was made by George H. Bucher, company president.

It was pointed out that the act would cause little change at the Mansfield plant since most of the employes affected by the law are already under the 40-hour limit. Employes will be paid one and one-half times the regular hourly rate for overtime.

In Mansfield today for a Westinghouse distributors' convention, W. W. Rogers, head of the press bureau at the East Pittsburgh Westinghouse plant, said, "the order for immediate compliance with all provisions of the law is in line with the company's policy to adopt every fair labor practice."

He added that the company would have had until 1940 to place its workers on a 40-hour basis in accordance with the Labor Standards act.

'Help Me', Anna Sobs As Chair Takes Her Life

Hysterical Poisoner Collapses, Cries for Mercy as Guards Carry Her to Death Seat; Current Seals Her Lips as She Whispers Lord's Prayer.

By E. E. EASTERLY

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Anna Marie Hahn, her golden hair disheveled, begged vainly—"Won't somebody please help me?"—and then was put to death in Ohio's electric chair last night as she gasped out the Lord's Prayer.

"Lead us not into temptation, but deliver . . . "

The prayer, intoned after Catholic Chaplain John A. Sullivan, was stilled as 1950 volts struck the five-foot body of the convicted slayer of 78-year-old Jacob Wagner of Cincinnati, one of four old German men she was accused of poisoning to obtain their meager savings.

A bluish wisp of smoke curled upward from the electrode on the right leg of the figure clad in blue cotton pajamas and brown silk robe. Four and a half minutes later—at 8:13½ p. m.—Prison Physician George W. Keil announced the death of the first woman ever placed in Ohio's electric chair.

Veterans of many executions said this was one of the most ghastly of the 214 conducted in the state's 104-year-old penitentiary.

"I never saw anyone protest so against death," said Warden J. C. Woodard.

Mrs. Hahn, a 32-year-old German-born alien, was assisted into the execution chamber by her three matrons—Mrs. Rene Tipple, Mrs. Josie O'Bleness and Mrs. Esther Kyle, first women ever to witness an electrocution in Ohio.

"Oh, oh-h-h," she moaned, and collapsed as she neared the chair.

Squirms In Guards' Arms.

Guards quickly grabbed her and placed her, squirming, into the brown-varnished chair of death.

"No, no, no," she implored. "Mr. Woodard. Mr. Woodard, don't do this to me."

"I'm sorry, but we have to do it; Mrs. Hahn," the warder said softly.

A guard held smelling salts under her nose.

"Don't do it, oh-h, please don't," she moaned. "My boy, think of my baby." (Referring to her son, Oscar, 12).

"Can't anyone do something" she implored, looking at the seated witnesses as the guards fastened her legs and arms. "Isn't there anybody who will help me?"

She shook her head in despair and moaned, "nobody's going to help me."

"Father, come close," she called to Father Sullivan as the black leather mask was placed over her face.

The priest took her hand as Warden Woodard stepped to the button which signals the three anonymous guards at the switch.

"Be careful, Father, you'll be killed," she cautioned in a whisper, fearing the current would be applied as he held her hand.

"Our Father who art in heaven," she began, "hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come . . ." Thus the condemned woman continued until the electricity arched her body and silenced the prayer.

Death March Starts.

The newspaper men and other witnesses filed into the death chamber about 8 p. m.

"Let there be silence, please,"

KILLED AS AUTO DROPS 50 FEET

Willard Youth Dies in Mishap Near Monroeville; Girl Hurt, Driver Jailed.

WILLARD—An automobile-truck collision near Monroeville, eight miles north of here, killed Robert Kenne, 20, of Willard, and seriously injured Mary McKenzie, 18, of Norwalk, early this morning.

The car in which they were riding, driven by John Leitz, 19, of Willard, sideswiped a truck as it attempted to round a curve and toppled over a 50-foot embankment. Kenne was killed instantly, while the girl was removed to the Norwalk Memorial hospital where she is suffering from head injuries.

State highway patrolmen arrested Leitz and charged him with reckless driving. He was ordered held in jail at Norwalk for further questioning.

Letiz, Justus Nagle, also of Willard, and a Miss Marsh of Norwalk, other passengers in the car suffered cuts and bruises and were treated at the Norwalk hospital.

The accident occurred at 1:30 a. m. while the party was returning from a dance in Monroeville.

Kenne, an employe of the Pioneer Rubber company here, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kenne; a sister, Pauline, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans of Willard.

The body was removed to the Fink funeral home here. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

STARTS SESSION

Grand Jury Meets, Considers Charges Against Nine.

The county grand jury convened this morning to consider charges against nine defendants, including seven men and two women, in a session that was expected to end this afternoon.

A last-minute case which came to the jury from municipal court yesterday involves charges of cutting with intent to wound against Dora Fryson, 22, colored, of Mansfield, accused of an attack with a knife on Betty Wise, also colored.

Other charges include an accusation of obtaining money under false pretense against Caroline Borgia of Norwalk; three burglary charges, two for carrying concealed weapons, and one each for cutting with intent to wound and non-support.

About 23 witnesses were scheduled to appear before the jury in the brief session.

NORWAY SILENT

Nation Pays Tribute as Queen Maud Goes To Grave.

OSLO, Norway—(INS)—The entire nation of Norway observed two minutes of silence today as last rites were held in Oslo for the late Queen Maud.

The funeral service, simple but impressive, was highlighted with a forty-two gun salute, at Akershus castle. Rites were held earlier at London, where the queen died following an operation.

JAPS MELT PENNIES

TOKYO —(U.P.)— Japan's copper pennies were earmarked for war use today, to be melted up for munitions. The mint is to issue 8,000,000 aluminum pennies Saturday to replace them.

A life for a life. . . . The state of Ohio took the life of Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati, poisoner, leaving her son, Oscar, 12, who still repeats, "I don't think my mother did those things." Oscar hoped to the last, visited his mother in her cell before the end, asked to plead for her life before Gov. Martin L. Davey and posed for this sad-eyed picture in the warden's office. Mrs. Hahn was electrocuted in the Ohio penitentiary last night for the poison death of an elderly German, the first woman in the history of the state to be electrocuted.

Made Orphan By Electric Chair

Kids, Here's Your Chance To Help Fill Yule Baskets

'Can Matinees' to Be Resumed This Year With First One Set for Saturday Morning at Ohio Theater.

Here is where the kids come in.

Several thousand Mansfield youngsters have a hand each year in helping fill the Christmas baskets by contributing the greater portion of the canned fruits and vegetables, pickles and jellies, that go into the homes of unfortunate families for their Christmas dinner.

And in return the youngsters get to see a Saturday morning picture matinee.

While adults of the city turn out by the hundreds to help make the Christmas ball and midnight show at the Coliseum Dec. 19 a success in order to raise funds for the baskets, the youngsters make a raid on pantry and cellar shelves to do their bit.

3 Matinees This Year.

There will be three "can matinees" this year, and the first one is scheduled for Saturday morning at the Ohio theater. Two others will be held the following Saturday, Dec. 17, at the Ritz and the Park.

At 9:30 a. m. Saturday the doors of the Ohio will be opened so that boys and girls will have plenty of time to hand over their contributions before the show starts at 10.

There will be a feature picture, "King of Hockey," and two cartoon comedies, "I Wanna Be a Sailor" and "The Lion Mouse."

Twenty-five dollars in cash contributions from clubs and individuals have been received this week, raising the "nest egg" of the Muster-Cheers, sponsors of the community Christmas project, to $155. Other clubs and organizations have pledged contributions, many of them cash, as well as canned foods.

Ticket sellers are urged to sell as many tickets as possible by the first of the week and make their reports to ticket chairmen, so that a portion of the food for Christmas baskets may be ordered. The number of baskets distributed depends upon the number of tickets sold and funds contributed.

8 FACE CHAIR

Georgia Gets Ready for Mass Electrocutions Tomorrow.

REIDSVILLE, Ga.—(INS)—Unless 11th hour reprieves cut their number, eight men—one white and seven colored—will die in the electric chair in the Tattnall state prison tomorrow, setting an all-time record for mass executions in Georgia, prison authorities revealed today.

Tom Dickerson, Ware county farmer, convicted for the slaying of his granddaughter, was the lone white man in the group.

Willie Russell, of Smyrna, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Christine Camp Pauls, 27, and accused slayer of her father, G. W. Camp, aged farmer, was the most notorious of the others scheduled to die. Two race riots in Smyrna, during which several colored persons were beaten and several buildings wrecked, followed Russell's confession to the crime.

DENIES CHARGE

Police Prosecutor Pleads Not Guilty to Bribe Charge.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Jerome B. Goldman, suspended assistant police prosecutor, pleaded innocent today in common pleas court to a charge of soliciting a $500 bribe. He was freed under $1,000 bond pending trial during the January term of court.

Goldman is accused in a grand jury indictment of offering to "fix" for $500 a manslaughter charge against Frank Christ, 23, of Cleveland, growing out of a traffic death.

Urges Celebrating G. O. P. to Correct Governmental Evils

More than 300 Republicans last night celebrated their first victory for a state ticket in 10 years at a dinner meeting in party headquarters on North Main street.

While the party workers dined on venison, sang songs, and heard a program of talks and music, they were warned by Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown, Ohio national committeewoman, that "it is more important to correct the evils that now exist in our state and national governments than to celebrate personal victories."

Mrs. Brown, principal speaker at the meeting, said the November election in Ohio "was a victory for all America. The opinion at the Republican national convention in Washington last week was that Ohio led the march back to a two-party government in this country," she asserted.

"But it was the sound-thinking Democrats as well as Republicans who helped us to win, and we pay tribute to them as well," she said. "Ohio will show the largest increase of any state in Republican

RENEWS PLEAS FOR STATE AID ON W. FOURTH

Mayor to Call in Officials in Effort to Get Project on '39 Highway Program.

PLAN REJECTED THIS YEAR

Cost of Resurfacing Street From North Main to Penn Estimated at $86,000.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today prepared to renew his plea to the state for financial assistance for the improvement of West Fourth street.

Hunter said that he was arranging for an "early meeting" with county commissioners, Madison township trustees, Boyd Wierman, state highway department resident engineer, and F. R. Hopley of Bucyrus, state counsel for the Lincoln Highway association.

Plans Meeting Next Week.

He said he hoped to get the group together next week to see what could be "worked out" in the way of resubmitting improvement plans to the state highway department so that the repaving job could be included in the 1939 road program.

Estimates and plans for the improvement were turned down early this spring by the highway department when former Director John J. Jaster said that no state highway improvements were to be made within the corporations during 1938.

The improvement, which was drafted at that time, called for the resurfacing of U. S. Route 30-N from North Main street to Penn avenue and at an estimated cost of $86,000.

State Would Pay Half.

Basing their figures on past state-aid projects, officials believe the state would pay 50 per cent of the cost with the city and property owners sharing equally in the balance.

The plans called for the removal of the old car rails from Main street to Ausdale avenue and the resurfacing on top of the present pavement.

One section of the street, from Rowland avenue to Sycamore street would be entirely reconstructed because of the need for a new base.

Hunter explained that Hopley was interested in the improvement of Fourth street because it is a part of the Lincoln Highway.

RIFT DEVELOPS

Japan, Russia in Sharp Words Over Fishing Rights.

MOSCOW—(AP)—A serious dispute developed today between the Japanese and Soviet Russian governments.

The dispute revolved about Japanese agitation for extended fishing rights in Siberian waters under Russian control. It was intensified by a Russion demand for payments in connection with sale of the Chinese eastern railway in 1935 to Manchoukuo.

Tass (official Russian news agency) said that Foreign Minister Litvinoff on Nov. 25 told the Japanese Ambassador, Shigenoro Togo, that Russia cannot "begin negotiations on conclusion of new long-term fisheries convention before the Japanese government fulfils at least its undertakings as regards the Chinese eastern railway payments," due from Manchoukuo, the Japanese protectorate.

WIN TAX FIGHT

Candy Makers Upheld In Court Ruling For Tax Exemption.

AKRON—(U.P.)—The contention of candy makers that candy is a food, and as such exempt from the Ohio sales tax, today had been upheld by the Summit county court of appeals.

The court upheld Common Pleas Judge Frank Harvey, who enjoined the state tax commission from revoking the vendor's license of A. E. Andrews of Cuyahoga Falls, who refused to collect the sales tax on candy.

GET JEWELRY HAUL

50-Year-Old Rockefeller Stable Opens Doors Again.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The John D. Rockefeller stable opens its doors again tonight.

The 50-year-old building in which the oil millionaire's 13 carriage horses once were stabled has been converted into a night club, completing the modernization of the Rockefeller estate.

FRENCH POLICE ARREST SCORES; TENSION GROWS

Clashes Over Italy's Colony Demands Renewed; Rome Drafts Fresh Protest As France Hears Hitler Acts To Decide Nazi Part In Campaign.

TUNIS, Tunisia—(AP)—Police clashed with hundreds of Italian citizens and arrested scores in this French protectorate today when the Italians attempted to demonstrate in support of Fascist claims on Tunisia.

Among those arrested was Ubaldo Rey, head of the Italian war veterans in Tunis and a leader in the Italian community in Tunisia—numbering 94,289 at the last census.

It was disclosed the Italian consul-general already had protested to the French resident-general against anti-Italian demonstrations here last week-end, and reports spread that he had been ordered from Rome to make a fresh protest today.

Despite continued disorders and tension growing out of the Italian campaign for French territory around the Mediterranean, officials insisted reports showed "everything quiet" on the border between Tunisia and Italian Libya.

Additional police were stationed around the various Italian consulates in Tunisia following last night's demonstration before the consulate here when the white walls were splashed with red and blue ink.

Report Demonstrations.

Travelers from Libya, who reported both sides of the frontier were guarded by normal garrisons, said there were several anti-Jewish demonstrations in Tripoli last night by the Italian population.

Word received here today from Paris said concern had spread in France on reports from the Spanish frontier that Italian troops were concentrating in Insurgent Spain within easy striking distance of France.

These reports, which lacked official confirmation, said the asserted Italian troop movement had begun Nov. 22 and still was incomplete.

Reports also spread that Germany and Italy were uniting to enforce Italy's territorial demands on France.

Thousands of students, demonstrating against the Italian clamor for Tunisia and Corsica, battled police in Paris street.

President Albert Lebrun unexpectedly summoned Premier Daladier for consultations on developments in the increasing strain on French-Italian relations.

'Venice for France,' Cry.

Cries of "Venice for France" and "Ethopia for the Negus" were raised by the students as they paraded before the Pantheon and along Boulevard Saint Michel in the latin quarter of Paris.

At the corner of Boulevards Saint Michel and Saint Germain the students hurled themselves against police lines and were thrown back by police reinforcements.

The demonstrations, which echoed others in various parts of France, came as Premier Daladier was called to Elysee Palace by President Lebrun for an unexpected consultation on the French-German war renunciation pact signed Tuesday and its possible bearing on the Italian colonial claims.

Other groups met during the morning to jockey for last minute positions before the opening of parliament this afternoon, when Daladier's foreign policy was scheduled for a bitter attack.

ROME: French In Tunisia Told Italians Will Fight Back

(By Associated Press)

ROME—The Fascist press today coupled reports of an Italian protest against anti-Italian violence in Tunisia with a warning that Italians in that French protectorate "would take measures of legitimate defense" if violent demonstrations against them continued.

Dispatches from Tunis said the Italian consul-general there had protested to the French resident-general against attacks against Italians said to have occurred during demonstrations Sunday countering the Italian agitation for French territory.

The Italian campaign for acquisition of Tunisia and other French territories took on a more official aspect as Premier Mussolini's own newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia of Milan, offered France a picture of those who resist the Fascist-Nazi advance.

This was an article giving an imaginary conversation between the former emperor of Ethiopia and former President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia. It was unsigned, but informed persons expressed belief Mussolini himself had written it.

Benes was quoted as saying: "If I had observed my instincts I would have negotiated with Henlein (Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader) and would have finished by accepting his famous eight points of Karlsbad. It would have saved the state and I still would be in the presidential palace at Prague."

The negus was made to say: "After the defeat of Maichio, in which all my forces were pitted without results . . . I decided to sue for peace. . . . Some day when I am reduced to extreme misery I shall appeal to the magnanimity of Mussolini and perhaps it will not be in vain."

Both actors were made to explain how British and French promises of aid had made them decide on resistance against their better judgment.

PARIS: Ribbentrop On His Way To Berlin To Report To Hitler

(By United Press)

PARIS—Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, left for Berlin today to report to Adolf Hitler on his talks with Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet on French-German relations and the European diplomatic situation.

It was reported that Hitler intended to summon Ribbentrop and high Nazi leaders to Munich to study the situation precipitated by the French government's direct question to Ribbentrop as to what Germany would do if Italian claims as regards Tunis provoked a Mediterranean conflict.

Mentioned as delegates to attend the conference were Field Marshal Hermann Goering, air minister; Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda; Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo, the secret police, and Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command of the armed forces.

Thousands of policemen guarded Ribbentrop as he and his aides boarded two special cars at the Invalides station near the foreign office.

Foreign Minister Bonnet bade Ribbentrop a cordial farewell at the station.

The situation which developed as the result of anti-French agitation, following the signing of a French-German anti-war declaration, was that France sought a specific statement from Germany on the Italian situation.

Bonnet asked bluntly for a declaration whether Germany would or would not fight alongside Italy if a conflict ever was precipitated because of a French refusal to surrender Tunis, Corsica, Nice or Savoy.

Ribbentrop was naturally unable to answer such momentous question. He submitted the question to Hitler. No reply came, and this remained to be clarified.

$17,000 RELIEF LOAN APPROVED FOR TOWNSHIP

Madison Finds Solution for Problems as State Okays Plan to Borrow.

Madison township found at least a temporary solution for its relief problem today in authority to borrow $17,000 against anticiated state excise tax receipts for the next four years.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson granted trustees permission to issue four notes for $4,250 each, the maximum loan the township can obtain under a state law passed early this year by the legislature.

Bills Total $6,000 Now.

Fred J. Stahlheber, township clerk, said the trustees would meet before the end of the week to take final action to obtain the loan. He said the notes probably would be sold at a private sale.

The loan will enable the township to pay $6,000 in relief bills, but it was not expected to provide sufficient funds for the relief burden this winter.

The township's relief expense ranges from $1,200 to $1,800 a month, while trustees receive approximately $1,000 a month from the state to pay the bills. They have spent all that was available from the general fund and $10,000 transferred from the road and bridge fund.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline, (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Ease CHEST COLD misery

First massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. This relieves the distress.

Then, to make its long-continued poultice-and-vapor action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. This also gives the skin extra protection against chilling.

Long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

TRUCKERS TIE UP CLEVELAND JOB

1,700 WPA Workers Idle Because of Blockade.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Two groups of truck drivers established a picket line today at a WPA project employing 1,700 men, and tied up operation in defiance of a warning of federal arrest.

Five police squads were ordered to the blockade after a truck attempting to operate at the Brookside park project was damaged slightly.

Police said pickets shattered the windshield of the truck, and reported that about 125 men were stationed at the parkway to prevent operations.

Two organizations of owner-drivers voted late last week to blockade WPA projects in Cuyahoga county as part of a statewide "strike" protesting competitive bidding on truck hire.

Arlin's Grid Plan Approved

Junior High Ball Needed

Successful at Massillon

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

H. W. ARLIN'S announcement at this week's News-Journal banquet for the Mansfield high grid squad that the facilities for the teaching and playing of football at the junior high schools to be constructed in this city will be provided has met with the popular approval of the Tygers' followers.

The purpose for the adoption of football at the junior highs is not to place extra emphasis on the game, the president of the board of education explained. One of the reasons for extending the football system is to enlarge the athletic programs at these schools.

But the fact that junior high football will increase the caliber of teams at Senior high is not being overlooked by the board, we are certain.

There is no question that the development of material in junior high schools makes stronger football teams at the senior highs. There are three splendid examples of the success of this system in Ohio at Massillon, Sandusky and Canton, perennial gridiron powers.

Massillon, for instance, had an entire backfield this fall that once played as a unit in junior high. It is only natural to suspect that the experience these backs gained as a combination benefited Massillon this year.

The Massillon system provides that the coaches at the junior highs work under the Senior high mentor, who outlines their programs. Sandusky and Canton systems are similar.

Work on the development of football teams at Massillon starts at least a year before the gridders reach Senior high. A year before graduation weakens any particular post, the Massillon head coach prepares a replacement. He instructs his junior high assistants to develop men for the particular position, regardless of whether it means the conversion of promising backs into linemen to fill this immediate need.

Detailed records are kept on the development of all junior high players and they are turned over to the Senior high coach at the beginning of the spring sessions at Senior high and he chooses his replacements accordingly.

* * * * *

System Would Pay Dividends In Mansfield, Too.

IT WILL take several years to establish such a system in Mansfield, but it should pay dividends in the way of victories when once grounded.

The board's intentions to establish junior high school football is commendable in view of the fact that rivalries with Canton, Massillon and Sandusky will be continued.

It will be difficult for Mansfield to meet these three schools successfully under the present set-up.

Coach Russ Murphy now must develop his players in their sophomore years, and football can not be correctly taught in a year or two. The additional training players would get in fundamentals in junior highs would prepare them for duty in their first year at Senior high.

Many Tygers have developed in their first year at Senior high, but the instances are rare. Few players ever see more than two years of regular competition at Mansfield high because their sophomore years must be spent in training.

Lucas Plays Twice

Goes to Butler, Bellville for Games This Week-End; Rams Seek No. 2.

FRIDAY night's Richland county league games will again help to determine which squads carry the brightest championship hopes.

Headlining this week's county bill is the Lucas-Butler game at Butler, but there is also much importance attached to the Madison-Ontario, Union-Lexington and Lucas-Bellville battles, the latter contest being billed for Saturday night.

Looms As Threat.

Lucas' only victory this season was scored over the green Ontario quintet, but it showed much potential class in this appearance, and should be one of the major threats in the race.

Al Axe has a veteran team at Lucas that is particularly strong offensively. Tom Greulich, who won the county league scoring title, and Bob Crawford are Lucas' chief threats.

Butler also has the majority of its men back again this season, and the outcome of Friday's meeting will probably determine which one of the two clubs possesses the brightest title chances.

Madison will be seeking its second league victory Friday at Ontario. On paper, the Rams stack up as the favorites, but games between these two schools usually are dog-eat-dog affairs and this tilt is not expected to be an exception.

Ontario is not likely to be as dangerous this season as in the past several years as graduation has wrecked the lineup, but the Indians should be tough later in this campaign is they develop as Coach Orv Kibler hopes.

Promises Action.

The Lexington game also promises some fine entertainment for the followers of Lexington and Union. Saturday's Lucas-Bellville tilt is expected to prove the possibilities of Royd Hodge's cagers.

Plymouth and Shiloh, which, with Adario, represent the county in the Twin-Valley league, also will be in action Friday night. The Tigers, who stack up considerable stronger this year, will be seeking their fourth straight triumph at Greenwich. Shiloh is host to North Fairfield.

Seniors Return to Action Tonight

Senior A league quintets will resume their season at the Friendly House tonight. Three games are on schedule, with the first tilt going on the boards at 6:45 p. m.

Augustine's Canfield Oils meet the Musille Cigars in the inaugural, the Rex Billiards face the Miller Dairys in the middle tilt and the Blue Goose Sohioans engage the Raemelton Farm in the nightcap.

Fighters, Matmen Share Bill

Promoter Nolan Experiments With Combination Card at Armory Tonight.

A COMBINATION wrestling and boxing card, totalling four events, will be offered followers of the manly art of self defense in the Armory tonight.

Feature billing goes to the mat attraction between "Silent" Rattan of Toledo and Gorilla Poggi, the "South American Ape Man" from Argentina.

Poggi

Rattan is well-known to wrestling fans in this locality, but Poggi will be making his first start in the midwest. Son of Italian parents, Poggi was born and raised in Argentina and has been in the United States only six years. During this time, he has confined his action to the south and west.

Bob Blake, who wrestled under Spike Mooney at Ohio State university, meets "Ironman" Ray Schwarz of Germany in the second mat attraction on the bill. Schwarz performed here two weeks ago and defeated both Lon Chaney and Lem Stecklin in quick order.

Paul Rocknell of Mt. Vernon swings leather against Hank Kidwell of Newark in the first of two six-round boxing matches. The second pits Tom "Big Boy" Woodard of Mt. Vernon against Chuck Brown of Newark. Rockwell and Woodard are managed by Lee Slaughter, well-known Mt. Vernon fight manager, and are probably the best boys in his stable.

Wrestling contests on tonight's bill-of-fare will be for two falls out of a possible three, with an hour time limit. First match starts at 8.30 p. m

One New Foe On Ram Sked

Orrville Replaces Mt. Gilead on Grid Card.

Only one new foe graces the 1939 Madison high school football schedule announced today by Coach Al Fendrick.

The new addition is Orrville, which replaces Mt. Gilead with which the Rams break relations next year because of the dissolution of the Mid-State league. Orrville will be met here Oct. 6.

Madison has two open dates on the schedule and Fendrick stated that the opening Sept. 15 date would probably be filled by either Bucyrus or Marion St. Mary's.

Old foes to be again met next year by the Rams are New London, Crestline, Upper Sandusky, Norwalk St. Paul, Bellville and Loudonville All of the games will be played at home except those with New London, Norwalk and Loudonville.

The schedule: Sept. 15—open; Sept. 22—At New London; Sept. 29—Crestline; Oct. 6—Orrville; Oct. 13—Upper Sandusky; Oct 20—At Norwalk St. Paul; Oct 26—Open; Nov. 3—Bellville; Nov. 10 or 11—At Loudonville.

Waiver Complications Delay Transfer of Bonura to N. L.

NEW ORLEANS — (INS) — The mastodonic Zeke Bonura today is to be identified, barring unforeseen developments, as the New York Giants' new first baseman.

Terms of a deal sending the slugger to New York from Washington were closed by telephone last night by the Giants' owner, Horace Stoneham, and Clark Griffith, Senator prexy, but official confirmation awaits the big league meetings in New York next week. Waiver complications in the American league occasion this delay.

Stoneham, it was learned, agreed to pay $20,000 and will turn over one minor league player to the Senators for Bonura.

The Bonura bargaining was the highlight of a series of trades accompanying the 37th annual convention of the National Association of Professional Leagues being held in New Orleans.

Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees sold Bobby Reis, his utility veteran, to St. Paul of the American association.

The Giants sold Infielder Mickey Haslin to San Diego of the Pacific Coast league by way of completing the purchase of Pitcher Manuel Salvo. Coast observers insist that the Giants have purchased in Salvo the best minor league pitcher of the year—a hard ball flipper of the Hal Schmacher order.

Jerry Nugent of the Phillies also dickered in the player mart. Nugent purchased Les Powers, who played first base for Jersey City, from the Giants for a reported $10,000. Powers will replace Phil Weintraub who was sold yesterday by the Phils to Minneapolis

Fight Patrons Now Can Yowl For 10 Rounds

LOS ANGELES—(AP)— The job of refereeing a prize fight here is becoming very complicated and confusing. They don't use the old method of simply raising a man's hand at the end of a bout, thus proclaiming him the winner. My My, No!

They have a system now. After each round the referee announces the leader in that stanza and the result is posted, like when the Yankees get through batting and they tack up eight runs on the scoreboard.

The scheme is very worthwhile, mainly because it gives the customers a chance to howl and yowl for ten straight rounds instead of having to be content with just one big boo at the finish of a match.

The state athletic commission, alarmed over a succession of disputed decisions, retired into a fog with all its dignity and accepted this unique scoreboard idea from a well known nonentity around town. It has been a sensation, of a sort, ever since.

POSTS MODEST GAINS DESPITE LIGHT SELLING

Market Again Featured by Aircraft Stocks; Bonds Irregular.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Selected stocks withstood light selling pressure in today's market and posted modest advances, but numerous issues lacked rising power.

Aircrafts such as Douglas, Boeing and Glenn Martin retained some of their recent popularity. Improvement also was shown by Greyhound, Electric Auto-Lite, Westinghouse, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central and Phillips Petroleum.

Further softness of European currencies in terms of the dollar was seen as a market handicap. Bonds and commodities were irregular.

Props for the market were found in a number of items studied by trading forces.

Bank clearings in New York City, as summarized by Dun & Bradstreet, swung up to a new peak for the year, and other cities throughout the country reported totals well above the previous week and the corresponding period a year ago.

While construction awards for the current week were placed at 5 per cent under the week before by the Engineering News-Record, the figure was 103 per cent higher than in the same 1937 week.

ITALIANS RIOT IN TUNIS AGAIN

French Police Arrest Scores After Battle Over Italy's Colony Campaign.

reported Chancellor Hitler would call an Italian-German conference at Munich to determine the next move of the Rome-Berlin axis.

The conference, they said, was decided upon after a reported demand by Premier Mussolini that Germany support Italy in her campaign for Tunisia and Corsica.

These reports, coming as paliament prepared to convene this afternoon, weakened in some quarters and strengthened in others Premier Daladier's reported plan to use the international situation to blast his way to a favorable vote.

The premier's associates said he had staked the life of his government on the national defense issue, aware that his slight majority in the chamber would make him a "prisoner" of his own Radical-Socialist party.

He was prepared, his friends said, to remind parliament that the Italian anti-French campaign began last week just as the general strike was developing in France.

"What would Italy have done if the strike had been successful and the government powerless?" one Daladier supporter asked. "What would Italy and Germany do if parliament overthrew the Daladier government now?"

The opposition press asked:

"Is the government which surrendered at Munich and showed the dictators its blindness and weakness qualified to stop the totalitarian states in North Africa?"

representatives at the next congress, sending 15 Republican congressmen and a senator to Washington.

"We must do a job in Ohio during the next two years that will stand out in the nation," Mrs. Brown said.

Other party leaders who spoke briefly were P. H. Rogers of Grafton, state senator-elect from the 27th-29th district, who promised not to betray the voters' confidence in him; Miss Louise Adkins of Newark, 17th district committeewoman; Earl A. McFarland, 17th district committeeman, and Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, secretary of the county executive committee, who presided.

"We didn't quite finish the job in Richland county," Atty. Cramer said in introducing three Republican candidates who were defeated in November.

They were Walter B. Woodward, candidate for 17th district congressman; John C. Friday, candidate for county commissioner, and Harry Maxwell, defeated for representative to the state legislature.

Verne Richey of Washington township, provided venison for the party. He killed a deer on a recent hunting trip to Pennsylvania.

Large celophane elephants stuffer with popcorn were awarded to Mrs. Mary Rickey, Washington township; Mrs. Nettie Shafer, Jefferson township; Mrs. Ruth Kirkwood, Butler township, and Mrs. Cornelia Johns, Plymouth, for their outstanding work in the recent campaign.

The elephants were made by Mrs. Ralph Hughes, Mansfield, county chairwoman, who was in charge of the party.

Assisting her in arranging the celebration were McFarland, John Hess, chairman of the county central committee; Ralph Hardy, executive committee chairman, and members of the county Republican women's organization.

Retain Headquarters.

During the dinner, committeemen and party leaders voted to lease the headquarters in the Warners' brothers building for two years after Atty. Cramer, secretary of the county executive committee, submitted the proposal to the group.

Ralph Hardy, executive chairman, said committee sessions and social meetings would be held in the headquarters and all activities of the party for the next two years would be handled from there.

The large room on the second floor of the Warner building was used for headquarters in the 1932 campaign and was leased again by county Republicans for the recent campaign.

Father Faces Ten To One Gamble on Daughter's Life

NEW YORK— (EP) —William Lewis, who works in a playground and loves children, must gamble, some time before Christmas, on the life of his eight-year-old daughter, Dorothy, with the odds at least 10 to 1 against him.

She has a malignant tumor on her right thigh bone. Unless her right leg is amputated, she is almost certain to die within 10 months. If it is amputated, the chances are 10 to 1 she will die anyhow. The doctors must have Lewis' answer by Christmas if they are going to operate.

Brown-eyed Dorothy doesn't know about it. Neither do her sister, Anna, 14, and her brother, Willie. They have been saving pennies to buy her a wheel chair for Christmas. Louise, 17, the eldest sister, knows.

The children have no mother. She died only two months ago. They are all looking forward to Christmas happily — all except Louise who knows.

Lewis has known for several days but he still hasn't made up his mind. The decision comes harder because of Christmas.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 1:30 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Fred Shirey officiating. Burial will be in the Edwards Grove cemetery.

Book of the Week

A Christmas orgy among the best sellers—

THERE is a certain type of person to whom you simply can't give anything but a best seller. Yet even among these a gentle discrimination is possible. To some givers, that is . . .

Don't for example, give Margaret Halsey's "With Malice Toward Some" (Simon & Schuster; $2) to the sort of person who rereads William Butler Yeats. You'll get a lifted eyebrow or perhaps a lecture in return. And don't give Dr. Lin Yutang's "The Importance of Living" (John Day; $3) to the Halsey fans, for they will only say "So what?"

Reserve what for this writer is the best novel of the year, Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' "The Yearling" (Scribners; $2.50), for the upper third. It can be read by anybody without boredom, but it's a shame to miss the overtones and undertones, for they make the book. This holds good as well with Rachel Field's "All This, and Heaven Too" (Macmillan; $2.50).

It is doubtful whether the native New Yorker has sufficient national consciousness to make it worth while to send him Dr. Arthur E. Hertzler's "The Horse and Buggy Doctor" (Harpers; $2.75), and this is a shame, for the book is possibly the most human and most useful of the writing doctors' product for the year. But Dr. Hertzler is a Kansan. "The Citadel" is A. J. Cronin's new novel, and Cronin is also a doctor. Try that if you prefer.

There is a perennial best seller on the situation in Europe. This is John Gunther's "Inside Europe," which seems to have become its author's literary career, since he revises it every other week. There is a brand new edition waiting, with still more recent copy (Harpers; $3.50).

Two books merit mention. One is Michael Foster's "To Remember at Midnight" (Morrow; $2.50), which is a little lush but still a fine backstage story. The other is "An April Afternoon" by Philip Wylie, which has to do with an adopted boy in a grand family, and with love. Much love.

By the way: Laura Krey's . . . "And Tell of Time" (Houghton Mifflin; $2.75) is for your "Gone With the Wind" friends.

SUES ICKES

Texan, Asking $250,000, Says Secretary Defamed Him.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A $750,000 libel suit has been filed against Secretary Ickes by John D. Glass, Tyler, Tex., lawyer and former chief investigator of Federal Petroleum Agency No. 1. The agency comes under Ickes' jurisdiction.

Glass asked the Federal District court to award him $250,000 actual damages and $500,000 as punishment to the interior secretary because of a memorandum which Glass claimed defamed him.

The memorandum, Glass said in his petition to the court, "advised and warned all oil operators to investigate the plaintiff."

He denied the allegations which he said were made by Ickes in the statement.

90 PROOF

Out of 1,000 Men Who Sampled OLD QUAKER—Now 3 Years Old—960 Found it Superbly Mellow, Rich in Flavor—Confirming Our Belief that OLD QUAKER Rivals Many Higher Priced Whiskies!

● It's a fact! This year you won't have to spend extra dollars to get whiskey that's "good enough for the holidays". Just the opposite! For, Old Quaker—now 3 years old—rivals many fine whiskies that are more expensive! Here's why we say so:—

We sought out 1,000 men and asked them for their frank opinion of Old Quaker. "Smell it!", we said. "Taste it! Take a drink of it! Then tell us what you think."

None of these men knew the name, age or price of the whiskey he was trying—yet 960 of them found Old Quaker rich in flavor, mild and delightfully smooth . . . confirming our belief that Old Quaker is an amazing bargain at its rock-bottom price.

How This Concerns You

If your taste agrees with these 960 out of 1,000 men—here's the direct way for you to save money on whiskey. Make the same simple trial of 3-year Old Quaker yourself! See for yourself that this is the cheeriest news of the season! Give choice whiskey for the holidays—stock up on it for your own holiday hospitality—yet do it with utmost economy!

"Now I know why people like straight whiskey! I'll buy Old Quaker in the future!" remarks J. T. Raiford, Engineer.

Jim: Read this note before you open this package
Mary
Dear Jim,
Do you remember last Christmas? I gave you some neckties. You said they were very pretty, but there was something in your voice that sounded like a little boy that Santa Claus had forgotten. I went upstairs and cried.
I thought how wonderful Christmas must have seemed when you were Dicky's age. And how it had gradually become a day when you did everything for us, and got nothing for yourself. I've waited a whole year to give you something that would really bring back the feeling of Christmas the way you used to know it. I think this Hamilton Watch will do it. And I hope it will remind you for many, many years that Dicky and I think you are the finest fellow in the world—even though we sometimes forget to say so.

U. S. STILL IN FRONT BUT NAZI TRADE PICKS UP

Germans Under Hitler Make Strong Bid for Latin American Commerce.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The European totalitarian theorists are seizing upon Latin America as a special field of expansion.

Especially since the coming of Hitler, in 1933, German doctrine and commercial infiltration have been developing at top speed in the Latin American states.

Second of Three Daily Articles

As a result, few nations this side of the Atlantic have been entirely free of "shirt" organizations cut to the measure of Adolf Hitler's Nazi system. Almost everywhere that such organizations have merged, violence has flared.

This explains in part the increased interest of the United States in South America. Yet it may surprise the layman how much progress the United States has made since the war toward developing its own trade and cultural relations with South America

The Record In Violence.

Speaking of violence—

President-Dictator Getulio Vargas of Brazil escaped assassination last March 18 after suppressing the Nazi-inspired Green Shirts who numbered more than 15,000 men. A raid on a Green Shirter's home disclosed 3,000 swastika-decorated daggers, and a radio transmitter.

Nearly 100 persons were killed last September 5, in Santiago, Chile, when the brown-shirted Nazistas of that country undertook a badly-timed revolt They were crushed.

President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico has banned Mexico's Gold Shirts and exiled their leader, Nicolas Rodriguez.

In our own United States, the Gray Shirts, presumably a part of the German-American Bund, have been the center of riots in San Francisco New York, Chicago, Syracuse, and several New Jersey cities.

German commerce, meanwhile, has quickened by leaps and bounds in the western hemisphere, especially in South America—evidently a Nazi effort to re-establish Germany's pre-war trade. By 1936, the Germans had climbed to the No. 2 commercial position in Latin America, displacing the British empire.

But Hitler agents are having the devil's own time undermining Uncle Sam in Latin America. The war shut off European competition, and as a result we doubled our trade with Latin American nations, and received more and more of their students in our universities.

Germans Bring Confusion.

The ubiquitous Yankee is now doing about 34 per cent of all the Latin American business—more than Great Britain, Germany, France, Italy, and Japan combined. (They are running in that order).

But the German attempt to build lasting commercial and cultural ties in South America and Central America has developed no end of confusion.

For one thing, German radio stations point their antennae toward Latin America and blast away daily with a stream of Nazi propaganda in the guise of news. Some Latin American papers pick it up, because it's free, and thus spread the terms and systems used by totalitarian states.

Several Dictatorships.

Beneath this barrage of propaganda and counter-charge lies another confusing factor—the general status of dictatorship as a way of government. Several Latin American nations are run by dictators. In fact, South America has never been without its dictators, even though many of its countries have constitutions based on our own American democratic system.

Immigration in Latin America through a century or more has included many thousands of Italians and Germans. The Germans have never been thoroughly absorbed into the general populations. In Brazil and Chile the German settlements became known by general consent as "German colonies."

Then, too, Latin Americans have never fancied domination from the North. Many of the Argentine's high-spirited leaders always have resented Uncle Sam. Some of their most influential newspapers are even now warning the nations attending the Pan American conference opening in Lima tomorrow, to beware of the United States.

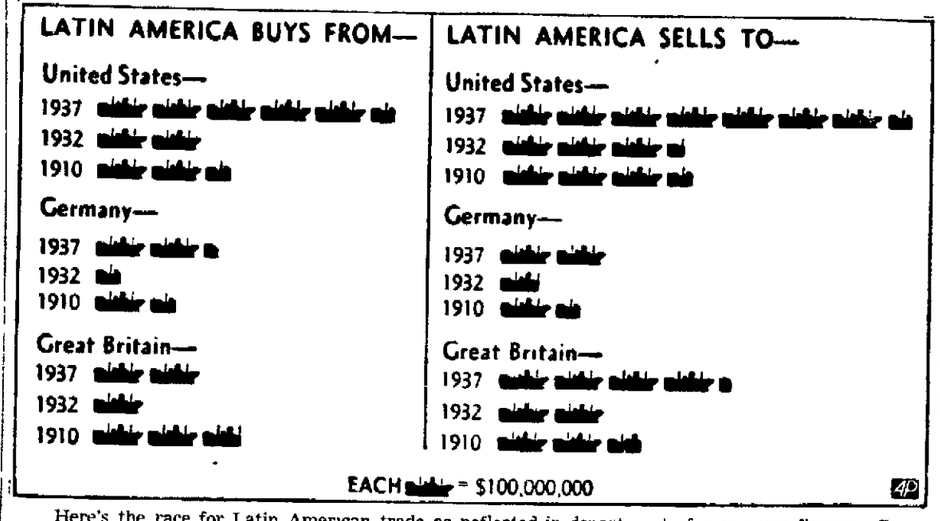
But, through all the confusion, one fact stands out:

In the two great crises of all-American history—the fight for independence from Europe, and the World war—the American nations have stood together.

The Lima conference may provide a sign in the sky that a similar solidarity is on the way once more, now that world crisis is darkening the horizon.

Tomorrow—U. S. Defense Plan.

Table Shows South American Trade Pace



Here's the race for Latin American trade as reflected in department of commerce figures. During the war we became No. 1 supplier of South American commercial needs. Figures for 1932 show the situation the year before Hitler came into power.

THEY'LL START or SOHIO WILL PAY THE BILL!

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1938.

Taxpayers would constitute a strong majority—if they should ever decide to organize.

It was last Christmas, you'll recall, that you decided to do your shopping early this time.

It would be well for young people to keep in mind that at least a few of them must be above average to keep the average from falling.

Boom In Citizenship.

THERE is a rush for naturalization these days. Reports from many cities show applications coming in more rapidly than for years. Classes of instruction for immigrants are crowded and in some cases are three or four times as large as they were last fall. This is surprising when it is remembered that immigration has been virtually stopped during the last decade, and most of the applicants have been in the country for many years.

Why the sudden demand now for citizens' rights? Present circumstances are more compelling than usual. Unemployed immigrants must have at least their first papers to get WPA jobs. There are citizenship restrictions, too, for old age pensions, and state relief acts, and private employers sometimes discriminate against aliens.

Perhaps the biggest reason, though, why so many of our immigrants are now snuggling up to Uncle Sam is the present state of the world, with special reference to some of the countries these people came from. A time has arrived when citizenship has more practical value than it ever had before.

Ordinance to Ban Sunday Beer Sale.

AN ORDINANCE intended to prohibit sale of 3.2 beer in Mansfield on Sunday has had its first reading in city council.

Under ordinary procedure there will be a second reading of the ordinance at the January meeting and final passage at the February meeting.

This is a matter on which a number of other Ohio cities have already taken legislative action which has been upheld by the courts.

Sunday selling of 3.2 beer came into vogue, of course, on the theory that such a percentage of alcoholic content did not make an intoxicating drink.

Experience has shown, however, that a number of 3.2 beer licensees used this permit as a cloak for Sunday sale of higher powered liquors and that detection in such cases was made very difficult.

It was said by one permit holder to council: "We know that the majority of permit holders who stay open on Sunday are keeping open solely for the purpose of bootlegging. We are attempting to clean up our own business and ask your support in giving proper consideration to the proposal."

It appears as a community benefit that the ordinance banning Sunday sale of beer be passed and made effective as quickly as possible.

Mrs. Hahn Pays Extreme Penalty.

CONVICTED of first degree murder by a jury of eleven women and one man, Mrs. Anna Hahn was electrocuted last night in the Ohio penitentiary.

Mrs. Hahn was the first woman to die in Ohio's electric chair, in which 213 men have been executed since it was installed 41 years ago.

While Mrs. Hahn's conviction was on the charge of deliberately killing one aged man, suspicion pointed strongly to the murder of three other elderly men for their money.

Incidents leading up to the arrest and conviction of Mrs. Hahn started early in 1937, with investigation of peculiar circumstances in connection with the deaths of four Cincinnati men ranging in age from 67 to 78 years.

It was on the following November 6 that the jury returned a verdict of guilty without recommendation of mercy, which made the death penalty mandatory.

More than a year was given to efforts to save the convicted woman from execution. Appeals to higher courts were unavailing and on Tuesday Governor Davey announced that he could find no grounds for commuting the death sentence to life imprisonment.

Throughout this whole case, which has attracted more than ordinary public attention, the chief basis for hope of clemency was the sex of the convicted person.

This appeared in the statement of Governor Davey when he said: "Frankly, something inside of me rebelled against the idea of allowing a woman to go to the chair."

This is doubtless an inescapable reaction of every thoughtful person who considers the subject of capital punishment. Yet the view could scarcely be defended that the death penalty should be applied only to male murderers and withheld from females regardless of the atrocity of their crimes.

Sex, in itself, plays little part in human behavior, as is frequently evidenced by the frightfulness of crimes in which women have participated—nor should sex influence determination of punishment for violations of law.

Death in the electric chair is a frightful thing. It can be defended, or condoned, only on the theory that civilization has not yet advanced to the point of discovering a better way to deal with major offenders against laws intended to protect society as a whole.

Governor Davey is to be commended for his decision not to interfere with the processes of law which decreed the fate of Mrs. Hahn.

Providing for the Future.

THIS country has had ten years of "hard times"—yet is still the most prosperous nation in the world.

One little set of figures is all that is needed to prove that. Sixty-four million Americans—more than half of the total population—own $110,000,000,000 worth of life insurance. No country in the world even approximates that, either on a total or a per capita basis.

This money is accumulating against the future—to provide for old age, for sickness, for business reverses, for educating children yet unborn. There it is—$110,000,000,000 worth, and it's growing every year.

The Italians, by demanding French territory, are doing a wonderful job of restoring French morale.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Anybody puzzled as to why the government incorporates some of its agencies may enjoy learning that it is to escape its own red tape.

Such agencies as TVA, the Columbia Valley Authority, and a cluster of various other authorities have corporation charters. This still allows congress to look down the corporate neck to see what it can find that it doesn't like. But at the same time interference by such government agencies as the general accounting office is much restricted.

Incorporated government organizations are given much the same latitude as private corporations, although the corporate charter is written by congress and subject to its revision. If the Navy, which is not a corporation, wants to buy a few acres of land to round out a reserve, it has to go to congress to ask permission—and to get the money. If TVA wants to buy some acreage around a dam site, it simply goes out to buy it, provided it can shake loose some money from some fund under its control. It doesn't have to ask congressional authority.

Flexibility.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT advanced the idea for incorporating TVA, asking in a message to congress in 1933 that the agency be formed as a "corporation clothed with the power of government but possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise."

Because it has the "power of government" to get its money from the treasury at government interest rates or no interest at all, it is giving the local power companies no end of a run for a place in the sun.

But the thing may also give an insight into what the president thinks of the feasibility of government ownership of this and that. His statement about TVA would indicate he believed that government agencies which are operated under the usual government rules are not "possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise."

Such things as this are being threshed out in the congressional investigation of TVA now in progress. To get any fun out of that hearing you have to have a physics book in your hand, together with a digest of electric power rates throughout the solid south

A Match.

THERE are occasional non-technical moments. One day, Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, the principal foe of TVA, was retorting bitingly to cross-examination by Francis Biddle, the investigating committee's attorney. Biddle nonchalantly put a cigarette in his mouth and began a fruitless search for a match. Without missing a pace in his reply, Willkie reached into his pocket, pulled out a pad of matches, flipped open the cover and handed them to Biddle. Even the icy-voiced Biddle smiled.

At another time Willkie burst out: "When a kilowatt is introduced into a power system, even the Almighty doesn't know where it goes."

"Shall we say," suggested Rep. Jenkins, Ohio Republican, "that nobody but the Almighty knows where it goes."

CHRISTMAS IN LATIN AMERICA

New Deal's Gold-Buying Muddle

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Despite reports to the contrary, there is very little prospect of any further devaluation of the dollar. President Roosevelt has the right to devalue it down to 50 per cent of the old dollar (it was devalued to only 59.06 cents by the first action). He will retain that legal right until June 1 under the present law. After that he would have to have new congressional approval.

But the situation that holds the United States firmly to the present gold valuation of the dollar is very simple. The president has the power to increase the value of the dollar in gold—that is to move it back towards what it once was—or to decrease it, carrying out the final step contemplated by congress, which would then make the dollar just half as valuable, in gold, as it was in 1932.

To increase the value of the dollar in gold—or move backward—is unthinkable for political reasons. In the first place, the farmers of the country have been told by the New Deal for six years that this devaluation helped farm and commodity prices—that to make the dollar less valuable obviously made their crops worth more in dollars. As their mortgages and debts and purchases are in dollars, this seems like a good thing to them. And while it might be argued that decreasing the value of the dollar might increase the prices the farmers have to pay for everything they buy, this argument would not affect the easing of their debts.

ANOTHER political objection to increasing the gold value of the dollar is that it would, on paper, reduce the treasury showing. It would increase, in dollars, the value of that tremendous hoard of gold the government has under ground in Kentucky. And it would subject the administration to the criticism that it had bought billions of dollars' worth of gold from the rest of the world at $35 an ounce, and now was admitting it had paid too much for the gold! Regardless of its merits, this would be a very difficult attack to answer on the stump.

But there are strong objections to the other course also. If the president should further decrease the gold value of the dollar, that of course would automatically mark up the price of gold from its present level, $35 an ounce. One of the chief difficulties of the present situation is that the entire world is dumping its gold on the United States at $35 an ounce. We don't want the gold, but to keep the price of gold at that level, and also to keep the dollar down in relation to the British pound sterling and the French franc, we have to keep on buying it.

So the question presents itself, when we are virtually the only buyer in the world for a commodity and when we are buying billions of dollars' worth of it that we really do not want, why we should raise the price still further.

A MIDDLE course has been suggested: that the United States stop buying gold, but do nothing about the price. That of course would promptly result in the price of gold, there then being no big buyer, going down in terms of dollars. It would also bother the British no end. The pound has been sliding down rapidly. This stoppage of gold buying by the United States would result in accelerating the slide. Then, too, Britain is financing the big armament purchases she is making in the United States by shipping us South African and other gold. If she could not pay in gold, what would happen?

Certainly nothing helpful to the United States. So the prospect is that the present policy will be continued for some months to come, at any rate.

Fight on Tuberculosis.

In spite of the important steps made in combating tuberculosis, it still remains the "white plague" of civilization. The record shows that in the United States the tuberculosis death rate per 100,000 persons decreased from 125 in 1912 to 49.8 in 1935.

A continuous campaign of education, research and development of clinics and hospitals for the treatment of the disease, led by the national tuberculosis organization, deserves much credit for these great gains. But tuberculosis, one of the most treacherous of diseases, is ready to increase its incidence at any relaxation of vigilance. Modern therapy has removed much of the hopelessness from it, but the economic losses from it and the suffering caused by it are still staggering.

One way to share in the battle against this "white plague" is to buy Christmas seals.—Kansas City Times.

Health Advice

Mental Functions Localized In Brain.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN THE closing years of the eighteenth century, in the ancient city of Vienna, a doctor of imposing appearance andan air of confidence and profundity began to give public lectures to announce that he could tell anyone's fortune by examining the bumps on his skull. His name was Franz Joseph Gall and the system which he elaborated was called phrenology.

Like many false systems before and since, it was instantly popular. Gall lectured on the continent and many eminent men in medicine and science espoused his cause. By 1832 there were 39 phrenological societies in England, and several journals were devoted to the subject. It was proposed to use the system in selecting members of Parliament, and one enthusiast suggested that a child's head could be molded mechanically so as to suppress the evil and bring out the good.

Everyone has seen phrenological charts, showing the skull partitioned off, with various human traits designated as if on the surface of the brain beneath. There is optimism right at the very top, where it should be, and wit up in front over the eyes. If you bulge there you should prepare to be witty. (It is really very easy; if you get the reputation, all you have to do is say, "Pass the mustard," and the table roars).

Mapped Them Wrong.

There was, of course, this much to Gall's idea—that the mental functions are pretty well distributed into separate parts of the brain. But not as Gall mapped them out. Long after Gall and some really scientific workers, such as David Ferrier, determined in what parts of the brain are localized its functions.

They differ from phrenology, the quack science. Where Gall put Constancy, Aggression, and Caution (at the back of the brain) is really the visual center, where the images received by the eye are translated into mental concepts. The eye sees a yellow blotch and the occipital lobe says to the frontal lobe, where the intellectual processes are localized, "That is a tuberose begonia."

Hearing Center.

The center for impressions of hearing is at the side just about over the ear. You hear a sound and your auditory center telegraphs to your frontal lobe, "That is an automobile horn." And then your consciousness telegraphs to the motor center "Jump."

The use to which this knowledge of localization is put can easily be understood when we consider the modern science of brain surgery. Brain tumors grow in a certain localized spot, and the symptoms depend on what part of the brain they are pressing on. This can be decided in the light of our knowledge of brain localization and an opening made in the skull over this area and the tumor removed.

Can Get Along.

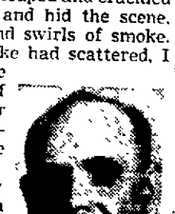
To the question of how much of the brain we can get along without, the answer is, a surprisingly good deal. We can get along without any intellect at all. The American crow bar case, in which a crow bar was driven by a dynamite charge through a man's frontal lobe, proved that. Though this is the center of the intellect, he lived for years, carrying on very well. The frog with all its brain removed will hop, swim, croak and adjust itself to every stimulation, but will sit like a mummy and, though surrounded by food, will not eat.

A Farmer's Diary

Butchering Day.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE two huge iron kettles of water were nearly hot when I arrived. A lively fire of snapping chestnut wood leaped and crackled beneath them and hid the scene, at times, behind swirls of smoke. When the smoke had scattered, I could see the little curls of steamy vapor move gracefully along the surface.



My neighbor had slanted a big barrel against his drag, and was bringing ashes. He gave me his rifle and showed me the six fat hogs in the barnyard pen.

"They'll weigh nigh 300 apiece," he said. "Let's coax them up here by the gate, so it won't be so far to drag. You shoot 'em and I'll stick 'em."

I did as he suggested. It was a gory piece of work—the least pleasant part of the butchering. One by one, we dragged them to the scalding barrel, where we doused them, backwards, into the boiling water into which wood ashes had been sifted. The bristles pulled off easily and the carcasses emerged from our hands as pink and white as anyone could wish.

One by one, we hoisted them upon a tripod of sturdy poles to a convenient height for disemboweling. When we had finished, the six heads were upon the palings of the fence, and the six warm meaty bodies were hung up in a row, to cool.

All day we worked. The meat was cut up, the fat fried out in one of the huge kettles, then pressed into cakes of warm, odorous cracklings and five-gallon crocks of clear, hot lard. The sausage was ground and stuffed; the head parts, together with hearts, livers and bits of skin were boiled for pudding. The hams, shoulders and bacon meat were salted and left for smoking upon a bench in the shed. The feet were put into brine.

It was a busy day. When it was done, my neighbor had his yearly store of meat and I took home a splendid round of sausage and a tasty roast of tenderloin.

When I took off my overcoat, at home, I found pinned to the rear a bristly, curly pig tail. My neighbor's boy had had his little joke.

Listen, World!

He Gave Himself.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THOSE poor, ragged devils drifting along the streets these days—clotting in dark huddles on the corners—shambling down back alleys—making furtive clutches at the restaurant garbage—

How often, in desperate pity, you've said, "If I only had a million"—then turned away sick, feeling the risk of parting with even a dime!

If only you had something to give! But you have. YOU CAN ALWAYS GIVE YOURSELF.

There are crueler things than hunger in life today—burdens more bitter to bear than rags. There's desperate remorse for old follies. The secret, gnawing fear of one's own cowardice. Humiliation that eats, like a cancer, at human pride. Old hurts. Old hunger, buried too deep for words. Old hates.

You couldn't help needs like that with money, even if you had it to give. But you have something that will help—YOU HAVE YOURSELF.

There's that poor devil who made such a fool of himself with drink. Threw away chance after chance. Now he's taking the count. Last night you saw him—pretended you hadn't. What was the use, when you couldn't do anything?

But you can do something. There's that chapter out of your own past . . . that time when you made such a fool of yourself, broke faith with your best friends, ran amuck. Remember what a time you had coming back out of that—hating yourself, dodging your own shadow? And now that it's all behind you, you never mention it. No one, seeing you today, steady, respectable, would even dream it had ever happened.

You say you want to help that poor fool who's going through the same hell? You can—but not by sermons or threats or charity. GIVE HIM BACK HIS PRIDE BY BARING THAT OLD SCAR ON YOUR OWN. Tell him you, too, were once a fool . . . a liar . . . a traitor to those who loved you. But you've come back—and so can he! Show him that scar, and he'll believe you.

That desperate woman with the haunted eyes—you long to help her, too. A grave in those eyes—black tears in that heart—a dumb grief that's destroying her.

OPEN YOUR HEART. SHOW HER THAT YOU, TOO, HAVE KNOWN AGONY . . . YET LIVED TO LAUGH AGAIN.

Give! Give yourself. Hold nothing back . . . pour it all into those empty hands, those broken hearts. All the hoarded dreams that never came true. The high, hot hopes—the brave crusades that failed. GIVE THEM ALL!

Give them as you would give bread and wine. They ARE bread and wine—part of that blessed communion which another poor man started long ago.

He, too, had "nothing to give." Homeless, penniless—keeping the Passover with his ragged friends in that shabby room—how could he heal the misery in their hearts? Out of his own hurt the answer came. There WAS something he could give.

"Eat!" He said—and broke the bread. "Drink" He whispered—and poured the wine. "This is my body—this is my blood—broken and spilled—for you!" Eat—drink—and remember!"

Nothing to give—except Himself. Yet that broken gift has comforted the world!

Give YOURSELF!

How It Started

"In the Swim."

An idiom never means what it says; if it did, it would not be an idiom.

Hence, to be in the swim is not to swim at all; indeed, in its sense of one who is in the center of prominent activities, social, business or otherwise, there is no watery connotation.

However, the allusion in this figure of speech is to a fish story.

"In the swim" was originally the lingo of Thames' fishermen who called the shoals of this famous river, where the greatest number of fish were to be found, "the swim."

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

A Home of One Room.

This room shall be a living thing
For I shall make it so.
It is my home, it shall reflect
The finest dreams I know.

Once, through a house I went, and it
Was home, but all of it
Could mean no more than this one room
That now, myself, shall fit.

Home is not measured by its height
Or breadth or spaciousness,
A room, just one, can spell heart's dream,
The dream of happiness.

I left America tired of the play. I returned eager to see another act in the humorous melodrama."—Jim Tully, author, ex-pugilist.

THE first New York Jews came from Spain by way of Brazil or the West Indies, and their graveyard may be seen in Oliver street. They were never harassed: then, in 1848, there came Jews from the Rhineland, and later the much poorer Jews . . . from Galicia and Russia, fleeing from the persecutions of the Holy Synod. . . . Here as almost everywhere for ten centuries past, the Jews rule the fur and clothing trades. . . . From hat to trousers they clothe the world. . . . The literature of Jewish New York has a spiritual tension and an abstract quality which can be understood when one realizes that many of these Jews, reared on the East Side, have never seen a tree."—Paul Morand, traveler, lecturer, author.

BUT let me express here the conviction that those who shrug and say 'War is inevitable' are false prophets. I believe that the world is populated largely by decent people, and decent people don't want war. Nor do they make war. In that Harlem colony as well as in another one near Washington Square, it doesn't require much imagination to make you think you are in Italy. Recently I became lost in that Washington Square colony. I had to ask six different passers-by before I found one who could give me directions in English. The others spoke only Italian."—Duke Street, author, correspondent.

$63,000 STILL DUE IN TAXES

Deadline for Personal Levy Is 2 Days Away and It Won't Be Extended, Kolb Says.

Nearly $63,000 of the county's personal tax bill for 1938 remained unpaid today, two days before the tax deadline, but Treasurer John E. Kolb said there would be no extension of the payment period.

"It won't be necessary to extend the time," Kolb said, adding that "collections have been good so far."

Saturday is the deadline for payment without penalty. With $188,964 due for the last half of the year, receipts today totaled $126,024. Of that amount, $96,329 is in general personal tax and $29,695 in classified tax.

Most of the personal tax is paid by industrial firms on their office equipment and plant equipment, the treasurer said.

Although personal tax receipts are expected to be high this year, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe was pessimistic over the outlook for 1939.

"About 90 per cent of the classified tax is collected on dividends paid by industrial plants, and a number of them in the county have been unable to pay dividends to stockholders," he said.

'HELP ME,' ANNA CRIES AS CHAIR TAKES HER LIFE

Hysterical Prisoner Carried to Death Seat; Electricity Halts Her Prayer.

the warden asked.

Meanwhile, from behind a door of the chamber the death march was about to begin.

Mrs. Hahn insisted that one of her attorneys, Joseph H. Hoodin, be present. Another attorney, Sidney Brant, came in his stead.

Half fainting, her face swollen with tears, she whimpered and sobbed as the grim procession began: "Heavenly Father, or God, oh God, help me."

The march took her past the cells of 11 men, also sentenced to death. Each stood respectfully at attention as she passed.

"Goodby, Mrs. Hahn," they whispered.

Brant remarked later, "it was a beautiful effort at courtesy."

"Goodby, boys, and God bless you," she replied.

Leading the procession was Father Sullivan and behind came six guards.

The death chamber door was opened by the warden at their knock.

Judge Refuses Writ.

The electrocution followed a last-minute desperate attempt by the attorneys to stay it. Already refused by state and U. S. supreme courts, they appealed to U. S. District Judge Mell G. Underwood for a writ of habeas corpus, contending Mrs. Hahn's constitutional rights were denied in the trial.

Judge Underwood denied the writ hardly an hour before she was scheduled to die. The day before, Gov. Martin L. Davey declined to commute her sentence to life imprisonment and pictured her as a "cold-blooded" killer who slew "in remorseless deliberation for money." The execution had been twice postponed for earlier rulings by courts.

Mrs. Hahn fell into a hysterical fit of sobbing after she parted with her son, Oscar, about 5 p. m. She had hoped that the governor would spare her life because of the son.

Oscar, in tears, sought to see his mother again about 7.20 p. m. Denied permission, he went in to the prison's Catholic chapel with Father Sullivan and prayed.

Attorney Hoodin said he and his staff had not decided in whose care Oscar would be placed

"I'm fairly certain he will not go back to Germany" (where he was born, son of a father he never saw), Hoodin said.

Oscar has been living with the parents of his step-father, Philip Hahn, a Cincinnati telegrapher

A Columbus undertaking establishment took charge of Mrs Hahn's body.

Hoodin said he hoped to keep the funeral arrangements secret.

Collapse Surprises.

Mrs Hahn's reversion to a role of child-like helplessnes as she walked to the chair was a surprise to those who witnessed her display of steel nerves in the trial which ended with conviction by a jury of 11 women and one man, Nov 6, 1937

"I was surprised," Brant observed. "I expected her to be cool"

Mrs. Hahn repeatedly had insisted she was innocent of causing the death of Wagner, for which she was tried, as well as those of George Obendoerfer, 67, George Gsellman, 67, and Albert Palmer, 72 It was on the state's introduction of these other three deaths that the unsuccessful Hahn appeals were based The prosecution held they all were links in a murder-for-gain scheme

Asked if Mrs Hahn maintained innocence until the last, Hoodin replied

"I can't answer that I've got certain papers which she wrote"

Asked whether he himself still believed she was innocent Hoodin's answer was "I can answer that better in a few days," explaining he wished to read the papers first.

Prosecutor Dudley M Outcalt of Hamilton county (later elected a common pleas judge) was permitted in the trial to introduce evidence about the deaths of the three men other than Wagner in an effort to bolster his contention that she killed the German gardner to obtain cash for paying race track losses

Big Issue In Fight.

The introduction of collateral evidence was a big issue in her attorneys' appeals which were carried through the U S supreme court. They contended that Mrs Hahn was tried for four deaths Sh also was accused of administering poison which temporarily paralyzed George Heis, 62, who testified against her.

Testimony that poison crystals were found in a purse taken from Mrs. Hahn and that enough poison to kill 17 persons was detected in the remnants of a supper in Gsellman's room was offered by the prosecution

Attorney Brant saw the electrocution Oscar was on his way back to Cincinnati when it took place

Warden Woodard had tears in his eyes when he emerged from Mrs. Hahn's cell a short time before the electrocution

Attorney Hoodin who reported he and his associates spent $8 000 in their legal fight to save Mrs Hahn, said she left no will Hoodins law firm has a $5,000 second mortgage on a Cincinnati house which Mrs. Hahn owned, he said

Mrs. Hahn Buried After Brief Rites.

COLUMBUS—(INS)— . . . Let not the hand of justice be heavy"

Rev. Father John A. Sullivan, chaplain at Ohio penitentiary, stepped back from the grey wooden casket containing the body of Anna Marie Hahn. Attendants closed the white satin lined cover. The ritual of the dead was ended and with it the final chapter in saga of Cincinnati's blond Borgia

The private services were conducted at the undertaking establishment where the body of the first woman to die in Ohio's electric chair was taken after her execution last night Only three members of her defense staff, the three matrons who watched over her in prison, and Mrs James C. Woodard, wife of the penitentiary warden, were present

Oscar, Mrs. Hahn's 12-year-old son, who left the city 20 minutes before her execution, did not return for his mother's last rites There was only one basket of flowers sent by "Friends in Cincinnati"

At the conclusion of the services the doors of the funeral home were opened again and several hundred persons who had remained outside for an hour or more, dispersed The funeral procession of four cars started for Mt Calvary cemetery where Mrs Hahn had purchased a lot a few hours before her death

It had been Mrs Hahn's request that she be buried in the Columbus cemetery and there in an unkempt plot of unconsecrated ground in the shadow of the Columbus baseball stadium the casket was lowered into a hastily dug grave

A mere handful of the thousands who had filed past her bier during the night was present

Ohio Lawmaker Would Abolish Chair Deaths.

CLEVELAND (AP)—An effort will be made to abolish capital punishment in Ohio as a result of the execution last night of Mrs Anna Marie Hearn Chester Gillespie member-elect of the legislature, announced today

"I will introduce a bill to end the use of the electric chair as soon as the next legislature convenes We were positively convinced last night in killing that woman Gillespie said

"Capital punishment, as the records show, does not deter murder The jury, prosecutor judge and police pass the buck to the governor. Everyone had a sneaking idea that the governor would commute her sentence but Davey fooled them It is an awful responsibility to put on one man It is cruel to do it

"Records in other states show death verdicts do not deter murder There is something helpless about a woman that makes the execution more horrible I think we should call for the abolition of such a horrible thing as the state did last night"

Gillespie said he would provide if possible, the ending of the governor's power to pardon in first degree cases except upon the discovery of new evidence to disprove the guilt of the prisoner.

CONFER ON ROAD SURFACING JOB

Commissioners in Columbus to Discuss Bid on $68,000 County Project.

County commissioners were in Columbus today to confer with state highway and PWA officials on the advisability of using gravel instead of stone for a "black-top" mixture for a $68,000 county PWA road resurfacing project.

Their action followed a protest from the Purdy Construction company, Mansfield, which submitted a low bid on the road project. Commissioners had indicated they would reject the bid because it quoted a figure for gravel instead of stone

The bid was for $49,598, while the next lowest, submitted by the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, on stone construction, was for $54,675

W. W Purdy, head of the Purdy Construction company, said his bid was eligible for equal consideration with the other three received by commissioners, since the advertisement for bids did not specify stone materials.

P. S. Carroll, clerk of the board of commissioners, pointed out that the commissioners followed state highway specifications in requesting bids They considered the use of stone an economy measure even if it costs more than gravel, he added

ENVOYS TO PERU CONSIDER BAN ON PROPAGANDA

Proposal Might Come Before Pan American Delegates at Session Tomorrow.

(By Associated Press)

LIMA, Peru—A proposal to ban European political propaganda, in line with the United States program of solidarity for the Americas, may come before the Pan-American conference which opens tomorrow, activity by the Argentina delegation indicated today.

The delegation, a conference informant said, agreed upon a tentative recommendation.

A series of informal conferences between Secretary Hull, chief of the United States delegation, and heads of the Latin-American groups demonstrated that they were taking President Roosevelt's solidarity proposals with deep seriousness.

Sounds Out Sentiment.

By the series of informative talks he began last night shortly after his arrival, the secretary was said to be sounding out the attitude of all other delegations before deciding to present any specific project for a united hemisphere.

Sources close to the Brazilian delegation indicated Brazil would follow its traditional policy of strongly supporting the United States, including backing a proposal for co-operative continental defense should it be advanced

Although none of the delegates in an exchange of viewpoints committed their nations to any of the several important issues likely to come before the conference, an Argentina informant made it plain his group expected to introduce the anti-propaganda resolution.

It was inspired by increasing activity attributed to German and Italian groups, following plebiscites held by German residents of a number of American states to endorse the Nazi annexation of Austria last spring

Delegate Mario Antelo worded the tentative draft to ban political propaganda by foreign residents of the Americas, designed to forbid immigrants to exercise political rights given them by their native countries

Continuing his exploratory conversations, Secretary Hull also devoted time today to work on two speeches—one for the radio tonight and one for the conference on Saturday.

The secretary in a press conference last night said the Latin American leaders with whom he talked expressed a determination to go forward with Pan-American co-operation but that he had made no attempt yet to reach decisions.

Paroled by O. S. R., Clevelander Slain In Hotel Hold-up

A paroled inmate of the Ohio State reformatory was shot and killed by a Cleveland detective early today when with two companions he attempted to rob the night clerk of a dowtown Cleveland hotel, Associated Press dispatches said today.

The slain man's companions fled amid bullets from the pursuing officer's gun The victim was identified as Joseph Curve, 27, of Cleveland.

Reformatory records show that Curve was parolled April 15, 1936, after serving slightly more than five years on a 10 to 25 year sentence for robbery. He was received at the institution Oct. 20, 1930 from Cuyahoga county.

Curve was shot by Detective Earl Dietrick, who said he had received information from an unnamed source that the hotel was to be robbed and had lain in wait for the bandits for three weeks.

The man whom the detective killed had commanded the situation temporarily. Dietrick raised his hands when the robber approached him with Clerk Louis Spyke, 30, as a shield The gunman held a revolver against the clerk's back When the intruder turned momentarily, Dietrick drew his gun and fatally wounded him.

Cleveland police said another youth, a friend of Curve's was arrested for questioning in connection with the hold-up.

J. A. C. TO MAKE OWN SURVEY OF PARKING METERS

Sends Group to Zanesville to Obtain Information on How System Works There.

The Junior Association of Commerce, which has opposed installation of parking meters in Mansfield will send a special committee to Zanesville Saturday to conduct a survey of the machines in operation in that city.

Francis R. O'Brien, president of the organization, said today that a committee of four members had been delegated to make the trip and report back to the association.

He said that two members opposing the installation of the meters and two members who favor the machines had been named to conduct the Zanesville survey. City officials and representatives of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce went to Zanesville last week and on their return reported favorably. O'Brien said that the two members opposed to the machines were Robert Finical and Benton Goodenough. Other members of the committee are Richard Burnham and Gene Earick Burnham is chairman.

The association several weeks ago, filed one recommendation with council in which they opposed the installation of the machines in downtown Mansfield.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants association have both endorsed the proposed plan of metered parking.

A report compiled by Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the C of C., from individual reports made by city officials during the survey last week, showed that the machines which had been installed in Zanesville over "bitter opposition" three months ago, had now gained almost 100 per cent popular acceptance and approval.

SENATOR SAYS U.S. RECOVERY UP TO NEW DEAL

Word From Administration to Cease Interference Would Stir Boom, King Claims.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A member of the joint anti-monopoly committee, Senator King (D., Utah), today declared that a frank announcement by the New Deal "that it will stop interfering with business would do more to bring about recovery" than the inquiry into the nation's economic structure which the committee is conducting.

"There could be no greater contribution to revival of business," the veteran senator asserted, "than an unmistakable announcement that the government is not going to interfere in matters which rightfully belong to the field of private endeavor; that it is not seeking to take industries over; but that its role is the one of co-operation and aid.

"There is no doubt but what business men have been afraid; afraid of punitive legislation; afraid of government entering fields that should be occupied by individuals; and afraid of burdensome taxation.

"If business could feel that government truly desires to aid in every proper way, not by bounty or gift, but by sympathetically approving those relations necessary between capital and government, you'd find, I think, the touchstone to a remarkable recovery."

Protests Statement.

King, whose life so far has spanned seven major depressions, said that he does not agree with a premise laid bofore the committee by Leon Henderson, ace administration economist, to the effect that "economic growth in this country has stopped." Neither, he added, does he believe that the testimony thus far "has produced anything not already known by anybody who reads the newspapers and magazines."

"I have a tremendous faith in the American people," King said, "and I think that if we would only turn our attention to stimulating individual initiative and free enterprise we would have the answer."

King, one of the three members of the senate serving on the committee, has been one of the most persistent questioners of witnesses in the five days of public hearings so far conducted. Long an outspoken critic of trusts, he was the author of the anti-monopoly plank in the 1924 Democratic platform.

He expressed belief that in the current search for a solution to the country's economic ills, many have "lost sight of the fact that we suffered a tremendous loss of capital in the World war and the 1929 depression." As a result, King asserted, economic and political adjustments have been necessary but "the American people must not lose sight of fundamentals in the process of change if retention of Democratic institutions and economic stability are both to be had."

ASKS FOR BIDS

School Board Prepares to Raze Simpson Building.

Meeting in special session at noon today, the Mansfield board of education approved a request for bids on razing the old John Simpson junior high school building, scheduled to start Dec. 22.

The board's action was required following the approval of regional PWA officials for a shortened advertising schedule on the bids, providing for awarding of the contract on Dec. 16.

The board will open bids Friday noon on construction of the Johnny Appleseed junior high building, and probably will award the contract tomorrow night, Supt. W. L. Miller said.

He said more than 20 contractors had requested specifications for the proposed building.

ANNA'S DEATH IN CHAIR HOLDS WIDE INTEREST

Mrs. Hahn's Electrocution One of Several in Ohio Holding News Spotlight in U. S.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Although perhaps more widely publicized than any of the others, the electrocution of Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn last night is only one of several in Ohio which have made the front pages of the nation during the past decade.

Dan Bonzo, Ohio penitentiary record clerk, recalled today that the execution of James H. Snook, teacher of veterinary medicine at Ohio State university, caused widespread interest in 1930.

Snook was electrocuted Feb. 28, 1930, for the love-slaying of Theora K. Hix, a former university student and stenographer in Snook's office.

Snook's own statement, on file at the prison, admitted that on June 13, 1929, he took the girl to a rifle range near Columbus for a tryst such as they had engaged in for three years She struggled with him when he attempted to leave.

The girl's body was found on the range, mutilated with knife wounds, which Snook was convicted of inflicting. Snook was 49 years old

'Toughest of All.'

Described by Bonzo as the "toughest of them all" was Harry Pierpont, 31, a member of the John Dillinger gang of outlaws.

Pierpont and Charles Makley were convicted of killing Jess Sarber, Allen county sheriff, in a jail break at Lima on Oct. 12, 1933. Pierpont was considered so dangerous he was escorted to the penitentiary by a group of national guardsmen.

On Sept. 22, 1934, Pierpont and Makley attempted to escape from the penitentiary. Makley was shot to death by prison guards and Pierpont wounded. Pierpont went to the electric chair Oct. 17, 1934.

Bonzo said that no woman ever had been executed in Ohio penitentiary. Files of the old Columbus Gazette showed that a colored woman whose first name was Esther, and her last name unknown, was hanged in Columbus, Feb. 9, 1844, for killing a white woman state prisoner.

Bonzo declared that counties did the executing in those days and that the state prison had no record of the case.

Lee's history of Columbus records that a woman, Mary Garrett, was sentenced to execution from Medina county in 1888 but Gov James Foraker commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

On June 22, 1931, Mrs. Julia Maude Lowther was sentenced to the electric chair for the slaying of Mrs. Tilby Smith of Ashtabula. The district appellate court saved Mrs. Lowther from death when it held that several jurors had not been qualified properly. In a new trial, she was given a life sentence.

SENDS WOMAN TO WORKHOUSE

An Akron woman, fined $5 and costs when she pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication in municipal court yesterday, was ordered to the Toledo workhouse to serve out a $100 fine suspended last January when she promised to leave the city.

Police said they arrested the woman, Bobby O'Hara, on North Main street at 4 a. m. yesterday when called by residents who complained she was making a disturbance.

The woman was given the suspended fine Jan. 9 when she promised Judge G. E Kalbfleisch that she would leave the city.

Held In Slaying

Mrs. Evelyn Tynes, mother of four children, is pictured above in San Fernando, Cal., police headquarters. She is charged with having stabbed to death Needham Allen Napier. The woman's husband, who jumped between them, was also stabbed and may die.

ASKS POLICE TO FIND BROTHER

Pennsylvanian Believes Missing Railroader In City.

Mansfield police today were asked to search for a former railroader who has been missing from his home in Boden, Pa., since Nov. 1 and is now believed to be in Richland county.

Mrs. C. L. Marker, Monaca, Pa., reported to police that her brother, Robert B. Henderson, 55, had left his home on that day and had not been heard from since. She said he was a former engineer for the Pennsylvania railroad and had been despondent since being laid off six weeks ago. She told police that a former fellow employe had seen her brother on East Fourth street while making his run through Mansfield last Sunday.

She described him as six feet in height, weighing 240 pounds, dark complexion and gray hair.

FILES MURDER APPEAL

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— John W. Cline, 24, Middletown, appealed to the Ohio Supreme court today for review of his death sentence for the slaying of Aaron Laubach, Hamilton, O., policeman. Cline was sentenced to die Jan. 26 in the electric chair.

Youth, Held In 'Vampire Murder', Sobs Out Confession

GIRL, 22, SLAIN IN CALIFORNIA LOVER'S LANE

She Wanted to Kill Self, Says Youth Admitting He Stabbed Her Four Times.

(By International News Service)

OAKLAND, Cal. — "I don't know! I don't know; something just seemed to come over me!" sobbed Rodney Greig, 21-year-old railroad worker today as he confessed the lover's lane "vampire" murder of Leona Vlught, 22, former University of California co-ed.

Arrested at his Berkeley home through painstaking police work and confronted with a bloodstained hunting knife and a locket and two rings belonging to the girl, found in his auto, the youth readily admitted the crime, authorities said.

He was the "new boy friend," with whom the statuesque beauty had been keeping secret trysts in the early morning hours.

Greig declared the girl had discussed suicide with him as they sat in his car in the foothills of East Oakland about 3 a. m yesterday.

"She was talking wildly about killing herself because she was afraid she would have to have an appendix operation," the young prisoner said.

Hands Her Knife.

"I had a thin-bladed six-inch sheath knife with me. In jest, I handed her the knife and asked her if she had the nerve to commit suicide.

"She joked about it and made a few passes at me with the knife. I left her in the car for a moment while I took a walk.

"Something seemed to come over me. I felt a strange, wild urge. I walked back to the car, picked up the knife and stabbed her in the chest. She gave a short scream and slumped over. I stabbed her lightly three more times in the throat to make sure she was dead."

The three wounds in the girl's throat were at the points of an equilateral triangle — traditional sign of the legendary vampire—and gave the impression they were made with great deliberation.

The girl had not been criminally attacked.

Autopsy surgeons said the first wound reached the girl's heart causing immediate death. The fact that little blood was found around the wounds puzzled the surgeons and Greig had made no explanation of this

Scout officials and their wives from three counties attended the annual scout "widows" party last night at the Elks home. About 140 attended.

Ice skating will replace horse racing at the county fairgrounds this winter if the fair board acts favorably on a request of the Johns Park association for permission to form a lake at the north side of the grounds. Members of the association said they would plow a furrow around a low area on the grounds to provide a dam for the lake which would not be more than eight or 10 inches deep. Water would come from the city mains

What is described as a baritone-voiced bird has authorities on aviarists around here puzzled. It was captured recently by A. H. Wilson of Crestline, but remains unidentified. It is 14 inches high and resembles an American bittern, but experts who have seen it say it isn't from this family. Instead of chirping like an honest-to-goodness bird, the owner reports it growls.

Floyd Dent, area scout executive, who last Saturday was presented with 48 rabbit feet at a scout dinner as good luck charms for future hunting trips, has decided to give some of his "luck" away instead of keeping it all for himself. Last night at the annual scout "widows" party, he presented three of the rabbit feet to new area scoutmasters as good luck tokens in their scout work.

CONFER AGAIN ON 'OPEN DOOR'

Japanese, U. S., and British Ambassadors Meet on Trade Policies With China.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—Japanese Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita conferred with the United States and British ambassadors to Tokyo today on the question of the "open door" in China.

According to Japanese newspapers, Arita insisted that henceforth China must be regarded by western powers as an "independent" rather than "subservient" nation.

Arita received the two envoys, Joseph C. Grew of the United States and Sir Robert Craigie of Great Britain separately.

According to the press accounts, he intimated that Japan considers the nine-power treaty, guaranteeing Chinese territorial integrity, obsolete and stated that other powers consequently should accept its revision as "inevitable."

Arita also warned that foreign powers no longer can expect special privileges in China. Japanese press versions said he bluntly informed the British ambassador that Japan "cannot tolerate British attempts to hinder establishment of a new order in the Far East."

Arita expressed the Japanese attitude of the "open door" question in the face of recent United States representations insisting that the "open door" policy be maintained and that American rights in China be respected.

ASHBROOK PLEDGES OPPOSITION TO FOREIGN WARS IN TALK HERE

More than 200 Legionnaires last night heard Congressman William A. Ashbrook of the 17th district deliver his first address in Mansfield since his re-election last month and his pledge that regardless of conditions in Europe, he would never again vote for a declaration of war which involved Americans in a foreign struggle.

The veteran Democratic congressman, who survived the Republican landslide in Ohio, was the speaker at a meeting at McVey Post last night and preceding that was guest of honor at a dinner at the Southern hotel which was attended by 20 Legionnaires from Mansfield and vicinity.

It was during a discussion of the unsuccessful bill introduced during the last session of congress which called for a vote by the people before the president or congress could declare war except in case of invasion, that the veteran legislator stated his own views favoring the bill and said:

"Against my own convictions and much against my will I voted to declare war in 1917, but I'll tell you this now—I don't think we Americans have any business in a European war and regardless of circumstances, nothing on God's earth will ever induce me to vote for such a war again. I promise you that."

Ashbrook told the American Legion that in the next session of congress he will introduce a bill to have all war veterans with service-connected disabilities restored to the pension status that was in effect prior to the Economy Act of April, 1933.

Ashbrook was accompanied to Mansfield by his cousin and secretary, Paul Ashbrook, Howard Day, commander of the Johnstown, O. Legion post, and a number of members of that post.

Harry Shields, commander of the Licking county post and a member of the state rehabilitation committee, also was a guest and spoke briefly on the project of locating and marking soldier graves.

During a business session preceding the congressman's talk, Commander Walter L. Beckley asked for volunteers to work on the Christmas basket project which is being sponsored by the Three Muster-Cheers.

Beckley appointed several committee heads to assist with the work. Howard Newman will have charge of the drum corps and his men will serve as ushers at the Christmas ball; Hollis Moorhead was named head of the transportation committee, Frank Bebout will handle distribution of the baskets the day before Christmas, and R. M. James, in charge of the door at the ball.

FILES REPLY

Insurance Company Hopeful of Condemnation Settlement.

Possibility of settlement out of court of a federal condemnation suit to obtain the Mansfield Mutual Fire Insurance company property east of the postoffice for a postoffice addition was seen today by Atty. J. H. Gongwer, counsel for the insurance firm.

Meanwhile, Attys. Henkel and Gongwer filed an answer to the postoffice department's action in federal district court at Cleveland, pointing out that the insurance company's building was erected on West Fourth street specifically for use as insurance offices and that it is ideally located for that purpose.

No date has been set for the hearing at Cleveland, Atty. Gongwer said.

"The insurance company has made the postoffice department what we consider a fair proposal, and it is possible that a settlement for the property can be reached before the case goes to court," Atty. Gongwer said.

MORE FUNDS TO BE SOUGHT TO FOIL SPY PLOTS

Army Posts, Naval Vessels and Aircraft to Be Placed Under Extensive Guard.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The army and navy are quietly tightening the lid on military secrets, in preparing for the speeding up of the administration's national defense program.

New rules to safeguard forts, warships and planes, indications of a closer tab on aliens in aircraft plants, and a recent hint by President Roosevelt that more funds would be sought from congress to combat spies gave evidence today of increased caution.

Military circles heard that regulations were nearing completion to keep unauthorized map makers and photographers away from army posts, naval vessels and aircraft. Congress authorized the step early this year.

Aliens Transferred.

Some aliens on whom suspicion rested have been discharged in recent months or transferred from plants making warplanes for the army and navy, informed persons said. They added, however, that there had been nothing approaching a general "purge."

Since 1926 aliens have been able to work on military aircraft orders only by official permission. Now such permits are more difficult to obtain and are issued for only a few months at a time.

The new regulations about photographs are based on an act which authorized the president to define vital military and naval installations where it would be illegal to make any photograph or drawing without permission and censorship.

Under earlier legislation, President Roosevelt by executive order already has forbidden civil aircraft without specific permits to fly over 23 arsenals, ammunition depots and other key posts, and the entire Aleutian islands west of the 167th meridian.

Support for increased armaments came from Senator Norris (Ind-Neb), who said he approved them, although reluctantly, because world conditions made them a "matter of compulsion."

DISCUSS HOME

Players Consider Establishing Permanent Quarters.

The possibility of establishing a permanent home for the Mansfild Community Players was discussed last night when the board of governors met at the home of John Finefrock, Park avenue west.

The offer of several vacant lots on West Third street extension for a period of 10 years with an option of buying, was outlined but no action was taken.

Dr. Philmour Bein, president of the Players, appointed a committee to investigate the subject of a home from the standpoint of finances, location and means of operating it. The committee includes Mrs. Helen Bacon, chairman; Frank Forshee, Ben Goodenough, Atty. H. H. Schettler and E. M. Olin.

Lindley Smith, who scored a hit in the leading role of the Community Play last week, was made a guest member of the board for the remainder of the fiscal year.

MISH TO TALK

Mish will talk on "Old-Age Insurance as it Operates Under the Social Security Act." He will also review the Social Security act as it relates to unemployment compensation. A question and answer period will be conducted.

GEN. JOHNSON:

Will Congress Regain Its Power Over Federal Purse As Constitution Provides?

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON: How will congress ever regain its constitutional power of the purse? It was surrendered in 1933 by delegating a great part of the duty to appropriate money for particular purposes.

This was done by the device of lump-sum appropriations by the billions to the president with little more definition than that they should be spent for "recovery and relief."

It could not be honestly justified at all under the constitution except on the ground of an acute emergency. There was an acute emergency in 1933. This administration has made it chronic.

The constitution provides that no money shall go out of the treasury except on congressional appropriation. This is pretty broad but, in conscience and common sense, there are questions of degree. Almost half the money now spent is under lump-sum authority.

If that is o. k., why should not congress meet, appropriate $5,000,000,000 for "all purposes of government, recovery and relief" and then adjourn?

Nothing like that was intended in the constitution. All this money comes from the states and the congressional districts.

If the president or Harry Hopkins or the Corcoran White House janizariat appropriate it, every senator, congressman, governor or mayor must come hat in hand to these absolute managers to get back for their people a share of their own money. To get it is vital for any politician. If he doesn't get it his people are discriminated against and have to pay increased taxes for necessary local purposes—higher local levies to provide the share shunted through the federal machine and never returned.

The third New Deal has made this process of returning local contributions a matter of political preferment. You get it if you vote "right." Otherwise you don't. There could not be an intangible force more destructive of an independent system of democratic government.

Furthermore, the record shows that the money is taken from poorer and more needy states where the political situation is "in the bag" and spent in shocking excess and unfairness in richer and more prosperous states where the political result is doubtful.

Now there is conjecture of purpose to New Dealize national defense by lump-sum appropriation and amateur planning of rearmament. Providing, supplying and maintaining the army and navy is another specific constitutional duty of congress, probably not subject to delegation at all.

An end must be put to this somewhere, sometime. Just at present with so many WPA and PWA projects on the books without appropriation and the "fourth" or armament New Deal coming up, there is an easy shortcut. Congress could call for all these approved projects, make its own selections, appropriate for them specifically, can the rest and refuse any but reasonable lump-sum grants.

This is no minor matter of trifling heckling of the third New Deal. It couches a necessity of nearly first magnitude in the preservation of our constitutional democracy.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Today's definition of an actor: "One who is active."

The definer is Lloyd Bacon, whose record of action hits would qualify him for any amount of defining. His argument:

"There's a tendency to forget that motion pictures are pictures of people in action. The fans can assimilate only so many psychological pense and mood. They get tired of doing all the work when they sit down in a movie theater. They want to watch something happen, and happen fast. The faster things happen on the screen the more relaxed and pleased is the audience."

Bacon gestures toward James Cagney and Rosemary Lane, engaged in a short romantic sequence for "The Oklahoma Kid." Romance is there, he says but it won't slow things down. Bacon wants everything to go at a steady gallop, slowing down maybe to a lope occasionally but never slower.

He's getting down to fundamentals there. So is the whole crop of outdoor action pictures, newest of them "Stagecoach," with John Ford at the helm. He's getting down to the very beginnings of the movies, whose very first actor—even before the movies got onto their galloping celluloid—was a horse. Muybridge's "Studies of a Horse In Motion." Remember that far back?

That talkative trio — W. C. Fields, Edgar Bergen and Charley McCarthy—are uniting forces to prove, via the screen, that "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man' Interesting thesis, and one of the year's most interesting titles.

But what I started to relate was Mr. Bergen's terrific disappointment in Peggy. Mister Bergen thought Peggy would work as hard as Charlie, and deliver equally well. Peggy tried, too, but she simply didn't have it in her. Mr. Bergen couldn't understand why, but he figured it this way finally, and amateur ventriloquists may profit by the tip:

"Peggy was too animated. Her tense, excited appearance didn't match the voice I had for her. The most important thing to consider is harmony between the voice you use and the features, costume and characterization of the dummy you work."

Poor Peggy! But wouldn't it be fine if human actors who tried and missed had a nice, roomy suitcase to retire to—instead of hanging on with that old eternal hope?

* * *

Today's quotation, from Robert Taylor, discussing the superb naturalness of Spencer Tracy's acting: "...I'd like to be able to reach the point where nobody could accuse me of acting—if you know what I mean. I'd like to be as natural as Tracy."

AIR CRASHES ARE CAUSED, THEY DON'T JUST HAPPEN, PILOTS TOLD

Advocating flying safety, Ralph Smith of New York, told more than 50 pilots at the monthly meeting of the Mansfield chapter of the National Aeronautical association last night that "air accidents are caused—they don't just happen."

Smith, aerological flight pilot with Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd during his last Antarctic expedition, asserted that air accidents were similar to automobile accidents in that there "is always a cause."

Smith, who is visiting relatives in Fredericktown, attended the dinner meeting at the Schwarz tavern on the Lexington avenue road as a guest. He spoke briefly.

He warned the pilots not to "oversell yourselves or aviation."

To flying instructors he said: "Keep your students flying until they are good pilots and don't let them solo after only a few hours in the air."

He added that the "smartest bad weather pilot is the one who sets his ship down." Smith said there was no shame connected with landing durig a storm, advocating it rather than to fly into bad weather and "run into a hill."

He told the pilots not to criticize the department of commerce "too harshly" for any new regulations that come along, for the department "is interested only in the general welfare and safety in aviation, with the thought for the future."

The group also was addressed by R. A. Garrett, United States weather observer at the Cleveland Airport, who talked on "Air Mass Analysis."

He gave a technical discussion on the weather and the different type of air masses that fliers face.

Attending the meeting were pilots and air enthusiasts from Mansfield, Ashland, Shelby, Attica, Savannah, Marion, Galion, Loudon-

Rule Against Strapless Gowns

University of Washington varsity ball committee ruled that strapless evening gowns would be banned from the affair as "immodest." All co-eds who attended in strapless gowns were presented with suspenders and were forced to don them before appearing on the floor. Above we see edict-defying Virginia West being made "decent" by sister co-eds.

Mrs. Baird gave a paper last night on "The Nile." Her subject, which was illustrated with a map, was based on the book of the same title by Emil Ludwig. She told of the course of the great African river, the country through which it passes, and the people who live along its shores.

—Advice—

Should She Give Him Chance?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

It's been three years now since I started going with Jim. He's 38 years old and I'm about seven years younger. Several times I have broken off with him on account of his drinking habits. However, not long ago he told me he had stopped entirely and we planned to marry, even setting the date. Then his firm sent him to another city. He wanted us to marry before leaving, but I thought it was best that he should get settled first and we could make our arrangements after that.

Of course, as any girl would, I broadcast among my friends our approaching marriage. He didn't write for a long time and when he did, his reason was that he had been too busy. Then, with my mother along, I went to visit him, and he informed me that he hadn't stopped drinking at all and hadn't saved a cent.

He asked that our marriage be postponed until spring. I just can't understand it—he loved me so dearly, he said, and then he does this. Do you think he deserves another chance, or is he impossible?

READER.

Your experience, similar to that of so many women who are either married or engaged to men who drink, has proved disheartening. A drinking man seldom has the strength of character to pull himself out of the rut. It has been done, but it's a long, uphill fight that is more often rewarded with failure than success. It seems unwise to marry a man who cannot bring in a clean bill of sobriety. And you have my sincere sympathy in this trial.

Why not put him on probation for a given period? Advise him to put himself in the hands of a competent physician.

Local Aids Reform Eruptions

By MME QUI VIVE

One can live with freckles. One can endure laughing wrinkles. But flecks of dust in the pores and raised red spots make the soul sick.

Young people are the victims of the speckled trout skin. Too much sweet food plays a part. Casual face washing is often responsible. Dust laden pores become infected and pus forms. That is a terrible kettle of fish.

Dry skins are fairly free of acne. It is the oil exuding facial coat that produces lesions that are unsightly. Medical men who treat diseases of the skin and scalp acknowledge that there is no sure cure-all. Also, that what benefits one case may not relieve another. The wise course is to try everything that is recommended by those who have authorative knowledge along these lines. The generous use of soap, all agree, is important. It is drying, it acts upon bacteria which is ever present on the skin.

When the acne sufferer is thin and jittery, it has been found that regular doses of halibut liver oil were helpful. In some cases viosterol, a carrier of vitamin D, is used. Since babies thrive on these products there's little reason to doubt that adults will be benefited.

Extremely important is the daily bath with a bland soap and a heavy brush. The water should be warm enough to produce a rich suds. If a cold shower and a brisk rub down follow, the skin is toned and invigorated. If there are eruptions on the back and shoulders, an alcohol rub should follow.

Local treatment must not be neglected. The soapy cleansing at bedtime is imperative. It must be thorough but not so vigorous as to make the skin surface sore and sensitive. Pimples are infant boils; don't treat them rough.

Follow the soapy cleansing with a light pinching of the flesh, an upward nipping and rolling movement. Dip a large wash cloth in fairly hot water, give the flesh a prolonged steaming. After a gentle drying apply a solution of baking soda, one teaspoonful of soda to a cupful of warm water. Let it dry on. For the time being avoid creamy cosmetics.

These complexion griefs are not as common as they were in the past.

Party Punch For Younger Generation

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Few Things give a teen-ager such a thrill as being able to serve hot punch from a real punch bowl at her very own party. Obviously, adult potions of this sort are out of place at a party for youngsters, but there are any number of brews that the tactful hostess can make that have all the glamor and aroma of a real punch without any of its drawbacks.

The recipes given here are sufficiently exotic to meet the approval of the high school fraternity, but not even the strictest parent would object to serving them. So now that holiday party time is here with a bang, prepare a spicy bowl or a Wassail punch, if the crowd is big; if the company is limited to about six, try the spiced hot punch.

Here's How.

Spicy bowl to the tune of four quarts is made with a gallon sweet cider, one and one-half pounds brown sugar, six inches of stick cinnamon, one blade mace, one tablespoon each whole cloves, whole all-spice, one-half teaspoon salt and two tablespoons crystalized ginger. Mix all in large saucepan and let simmer for 10 minutes. Strain and add grapejuice from two 10-ounce cans and also one-half cup orange juice. Reheat but do not boil. Serve steaming hot.

Wassail punch requires two quarts sweet cider, two cups orange juice, one cup lemon juice, juice from two cans sliced pineapple, one four-inch stick cinnamon, one teaspoon whole cloves, sugar or honey as desired. Simmer the ingredients for 10 minutes. Strain and serve hot.

Another One!

Spiced hot punch calls for one quart of water, one three-inch stick of cinnamon, one teaspoon each whole cloves and whole allspice, two cups pineapple syrup, eggs and honey. Boil together the water and spices for five minutes, then strain. Add honey to taste. Stir in syrup drained from canned pineapple and reheat. Beat eggs well, allowing one-half egg to each glass of punch to be served. Pour hot punch over beaten eggs, stirring well. Serve at once. It makes about one and one-quarter to one and one-half quarts.

Tips On Gifts

Sox, Muffler Out, Choose For Dad's Frivolous Moments Too

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
(AP Feature Service Writer)

IT DOESN'T have to be a muffler. Or a cigaret case. Or a dull tie the salesman assures you is just the thing for father.

Dad's probably sick and tired of all the old standbys you drag out for him every Christmas. He figures he can buy his own mufflers and ties—and like them a lot better than the ones you pick out.

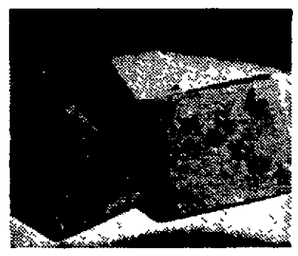
When he probably wants more than anything else is a gift that shows you are on to the hidden qualities of his complex nature.

The Second Of Four Articles

Perhaps he always has craved to be a flashy dresser, but his bank makes him stick to conservative blues and grays. He'd be just the sort to appreciate a fancy smoking jacket, even if you can't quite see bald-headed Dad in a brocaded model. Or perhaps he'd like to sport some lurid socks on the golf course. Or even a pair of cuff links and a tie clasp set with his birthstone—he can wear them to church on Sunday.

For fathers who fish and hunt.

Maybe he's still in the mechanical toy stage of his childhood, and would like nothing better than to spend his Saturdays and Sundays down on the floor with an electric train.



A good gift for the camera or "clipping" fan.

Perhaps he's musical—and can't afford the symphony. But he can start to finish on the phonograph. listen to Beethoven's Ninth from If the phonograph is lacking, you can pick up any kind from the cheap portable that must be wound by hand, to the elaborate electrical device which plays ten records through without a shift.

If he's really worried about his waistline and has been sneaking off to the gym now and then, don't laugh at him. He needs encouragement. He might be glad to work out on a rowing machine at home—if you have a place to put it.

Even if you brace yourself for any kind of calamity when he descends to his cellar laboratory to brew a scientific potion, he gets a lot of fun out of it. Why not replenish his chemical supplies for a Christmas surprise?

If he likes games, here are plenty.

If Dad is a game-lover he would appreciate a chest which includes the paraphernalia for more than a dozen evening-by-the-fire diversions.

A lunch kit fitted with bottles for hot and cold liquids might be just the thing he needs for hunting and fishing jaunts.

For business trips, an excellent "gift from the family" would be one of the tricky new traveling bags which zip open to a separate toilet article compartment on the side.

The traveler would be delighted.

If he is a camera bug, a photo-filing set might be the answer. There's a similar scrap-book offering for those fathers who won't throw away old clippings.

Any hobby Dad has should be encouraged. That's a safe psychological theory and a tip at Christmas time. Stamps, first editions, old prints, or glass pups—he'll appreciate an addition to his collection.

Dad will be darned appreciative if you give him a present like any of these, picked just for him, not the good-for-any-father kind. And for once he won't have to spend the day after Christmas trotting the mufflers and ties back to the store to be exchanged.

Next: What the "lady of his heart" might like for Christmas.

Fashions

Here's the smartest, most flattering style you can pick for a "run-around" dress, and it's a leader too in easy making!

Pattern 9864 may be ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16, suspender skirt, requires 2 yards 54 inch fabric and blouse, 1½ yards 36 inch fabric.

Send your order to The News-Journal, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Two-thirds of a cup of tea in five quarts of boiling water is the correct proportioning to follow when planning for 30 guests. Since about half of them will probably ask for second cups, it is a good plan to allow this extra quantity. Three minutes is sufficient for tea to steep. It should then be poured off the tea leaves. Whenever it's possible to do so, however, it is best to keep making fresh tea.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Deploy by twos!" Mary whispered mischievously as we waited for the elevator, and I nodded, then added a hasty, whispered caution just before the car came to a stop at our floor.

"Better not talk at all until we get out," I said, and she nodded a comprehending assent as the elevator operator slid open the door.

Except for an acknowledgement of his courteous greeting, neither of us spoke again until we reached the street. Purposely I had put the door key into my bag and did not leave it at the desk, wishing to give plausibility to the story Miss Whitlock was to tell the clerk later.

Just in front of the building which I meant to enter, one which had another entrance upon the next street below us, I stopped and spoke to a taxicab driver, drawn up in front of the building. I asked him for some information which I knew perfectly well, but the ruse worked, for I saw the detective shadowing us dash into the street and hurriedly get into another taxicab, with the patent intention of trailing us. While he was entering it, his attention diverted from us, I touched Mary's arm and, with a hasty word of thanks to the taxi man for his information, we hurried into the building. Fortunately, there was no one in sight in the corridor, and I whispered to Mary, "Walk as fast as if you were running."

She obeyed me and we really made record time to the door upon the other street.

"Across the street into that department store!" I gasped, and Mary's hand was suddenly beneath my arm in strong support as we dashed across the street and gained the shelter of the store with still no sign of pursuit.

"Where now?" Mary whispered, as I turned quickly around a corner.

"The nearest elevator," I told her, and we took it, going up to the top floor. We walked the whole distance of the store to still a third street, and then took an elevator down to the first floor again.

As we stepped out on the floor again, both Mary's eyes and mine searched the crowd, but we still saw no sign of the detective. With spirits rapidly rising, we went out into the third street, taking the first taxi we saw. We gave a direction to be taken to a department store fairly near the Pennsylvania station.

"This isn't exactly the strategy you planned, is it, Auntie Madge?" Mary asked when we were safely in the taxi, and still had seen no sign of the detective.

"Not that this isn't a good deal better," she amended hastily, "but didn't you plan to pretend to take a taxi to this department store from the front of the Lansfield?"

"Yes, I did," I said, "but the juxtaposition of that taxi and the door of the building was just too much for me."

"I'm glad it was," Mary said with heartening aproval in her voice, and then I leaned forward and spoke to the driver.

"We've changed our minds," I said. "We haven't time to stop at the store. Please take us directly to the Pennsylvania station."

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, December 9.

AN INTERESTING and eventful day is forecast by the lunar transits. But it may be one that is not entirely free from anxiety, disappointments and other adverse circumstances. The latter situation seems to involve or be at the behest of elders or old attachments. The emphasis of the day is found in social, domestic or romantic affiliations, which have surprising or unexpected denouements. Change, travel and new contacts are involved, with benefits arising from unaccustomed sources.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very lively and eventful year, in which the accent seems to be on the social, domestic, sentimental or romantic interests rather than strict business. However, in the latter there may be advantages in change, travel or fresh contacts. An elder is involved and not with notable benefit. Be prepared to cope with some delays, disappointments or obstacles.

A child born on this day may be talented in some peculiar line, being fond of strange matters, new faces and probably peculiar avocations.

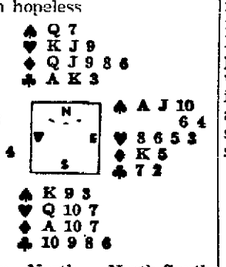
Use ½ can of pineapple juice and ½ water when you baste meat. It gives it a new and different flavor.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

SEIZING THE BREAKS

MOST OF THE FINE football games in recent years have been decided by one factor—ability to seize upon a break when it comes. It is so with plenty of bridge hands. One side could win the hand by perfect play, but makes a single little slip. That offers the opponents an opportunity, by wideawake work, to turn the tide of a battle which otherwise would have been hopeless



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable).

One Diamond was North's first bid on this deal, which East overcalled with 1-Spade. South bid 1-No Trump, North 2-No Trump and South 3-No Trump.

In response to East's bid, West led the spade 8, on which the 7 was played from dummy. East covered with the 10 and South allowed the trick to hold. East, instead of cashing his A and returning a small spade to clear the suit, played a small spade to the second trick with the hope that if West held the heart A, he would still retain one spade to come back to East.

Declarer won the second trick with the spade Q and ran five diamonds and two clubs but failed to make his contract because of East's defense. However, had he played the Q on the first trick, he would have won t wo spade tricks if East decided to hold off and in any event could have blocked the suit for East by not winning the second lead.

Do you ever have days when you just have to drag yourself along, when you feel tired, sunk—because of that constipation? Then why not find out the real cause of your trouble?

What have you had to eat lately? Just things like meat, bread and potatoes? If that's it, you may not have to look any farther. It's likely your trouble is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If "bulk" is what you lack, your ticket is a dish of crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

PHEASANT SEASON BEST IN YEARS BUT IT'S TOUGH FOR TRAPPERS

Richland county hunters probably bagged more pheasants and ducks in the season just ended than at any time in recent years, but the county's trappers are in for a lean year so far as income is concerned, Charles Kimmel, county game warden, predicted today.

"Fur-bearing animals are fairly plentiful in this section," Kimmel said, "but prices are so low that it hardly pays to catch the animals."

Hunters and trappers report catching a number of raccoons, and 'possums are numerous, the warden said. A good raccoon fur, however, will bring only $2 or $3, a third of the price a few years ago, and 'possum skins are selling for from 25c to 50c.

"Muskrats, which bring 50 cents or 75 cents probably are the best bet for Richland county trappers," Kimmel said. "They are numerous and more easily caught."

The mink, scarce in this section, will bring from $5 to $6, and the fox, numerous in some areas, sells for $5 if the pelt is good, according to the Mansfield price schedule.

The common but unpopular skunk, once worth up to $7, may not net the trapper more than $1 or $1.50 this winter.

The season for most fur-bearing animals opened Nov. 15 and will continue to Jan. 15.

It was an ideal breeding season for pheasants and this section was stocked heavily with the colorful birds, so hunters had a good year, the game warden explained. Although the Charles Mill reservoir was closed to hunters this fall, Richland countians bagged a number of ducks at the Pleasant Hill dam and in the Lakeville section of Holmes county, he added.

"Rabbits are plentiful this year if the hunters know where to find them, but most of them don't," Kimmel said. The rabbit season will close Jan. 1.

CHAPTER 17

Sara Sue was alone when Dr. Holgate arrived at 10 a. m. Her mother-in-law was visiting friends in Galveston. Calculus had gone somewhere on a temporary job, and Cleopatra was at the grocery store.

"How do you do?" Dr. Holgate greeted her cheerily, if stiffly. He even smiled, as if genuinely glad to see her.

"Nobody's here," she announced. "Don't come in so formally. Throw your hat at the table and slouch in, Thorny!"

He gazed intently at her. "Slouch?"

"Sure! Be human!"

"But, my dear Mrs. Davis—"

"I am not your dear Mrs. Davis. I am Sara Sue. Just like I am to the rest of the bunch, Thorny." She punctuated that with as sweet a smile as she could manage. "You must learn that you are one of the gang, not a stand-offish dignitary. Why, who are not—how old are you, anyway."

"I shall be 29 in December. When one nears 30, one puts away childish things, it would seem."

"Oh. You're almost 29. Tch-tch." She clucked as if in abject pity, shaking her head. "Poor old dear Sit here, Uncle Thornton, and let me get your slippers, and then maybe you will tell little me about Goldilocks and the three bears. Will ums?"

He blushed rather miserably, and Sara Sue laughed out loud

"Thorny Holgate, you ought to be ashamed! Why, I will be 24 at my next. Bob Towne—a lot of the seniors are as old as I, and a few are older. My first hus—I mean, Larry Davis — was five years older than I when we married. Why, silly, 28 isn't old! Nor 38 nor 48, for that matter. You have just been bashful and shy. Too scholarly. And too serious."

He sat down.

"It is true," he almost whispered it. "I know it is true, Mrs D—Sara Sue. But—" He swallower, looking beyond her.

"Thorny, I'm glad you came to me," she spoke ever so gently then, sitting beside him, and looking at him. "The greatest happiness I have found is in helping other people find their happiness. I can see right through you now I do want to help you. If you will co-operate with me, I think we can make you what you'd really want to be, and make Geraldine Pomeroy your sweetheart, too."

He touched her hand in gratitude, patted it abstractedly, thinking

"Thank you, so much," he said, and meant it. "I will do everything you say."

She changed the mood, at that.

"All right," she said, rather loudly and cheerfully. "Let's analyze. Now, first you have already attended to the clothing. By the way, you look fine this morning This suit is ever so becoming, Thorny. Really it is."

He looked at his coat sleeve.

"Your tie, too, is nice. Don't wear any more black ones, ever. And don't wear black sox. And let me see—" She inspected him, hair to heel. "Listen, Thorny, take off your glasses a moment."

He obeyed, folding the heavy ear pieces.

"Well, my goodness! You have no idea what a difference it makes in you!"

"I daresay."

"It does, Thorny. Do you have to wear them?"

"Well, when I read, yes."

"But not all the time?"

"No. But I read a great deal, and it is convenient to wear them. I have just developed a habit of doing so. I am scarcely conscious of them."

"You wait a minute."

She hastened into her mother-in-law's bedroom, and came back bearing spectacles with small white gold frames and a different nose piece. "Try these on," she ordered. "They are mother's spares. I want to see this style on you."

He adjusted them, soberly.

"Now smile, Thorny. Look at me and say, 'How are you, Tools' and grin like a sophomore."

It was a difficult order, but he managed it. Sara Sue giggled in delight.

"You trot right downtown this afternoon," she commanded, "and get fitted in a better style of frame. This one improves you a hundred per cent. Really it does. Takes that owlish look away. And you must wear glasses only when you read. At least while you're wooing Peaches Pomeroy. Promise?"

"I promise." He smiled appreciatively.

"You know, Thorny, you are really quite a handsome man, when you give yourself a chance I was just noticing the set of your chin. And you have a good nose and mouth, and very pretty eyes."

* * *

Thornton Holgate, Ph. D., blushed. Nobody had spoken to him like that ever, in all his memory. He smiled through his glow.

"You—ah—are ribbing me, I fear."

"No. I am giving you a professional analysis. Now listen further—you practice exercises before the mirror, will you? Remove your glasses, and do all sorts of facial contortions. Get that set look out of it, understand? You have too much of a scholastic dignified expression. Try — try whistling, Thorny. And humming. And smiling. Smile a lot. Life isn't so serious. Really it isn't. The country isn't going to the dogs, or anything of the sort. You must be happy to be successful in love. So be gay. Mingle with people, and be gay with them. Promise?"

She edged off her lecturing then. In truth, she began to feel a trifle ashamed of herself. Could she be overdoing a job, in her enthusiasm? She almost apologized when that possibility occurred to her, but thought better of it and didn't.

They talked a bit more, and then he made a confession.

"I came with a report," he said.

"Oh. What? I'm so curious to know."

"I have spoken to Miss Po—to Geraldine—in person."

"No! Really?"

"Yes! I, ah, accosted her in the sallyport only this morning. First I saw her coming from the physics laboratory, and when she was unexpectedly alone, I hastened across the greensward and came onto her as if by chance. She was quite cordial."

"What all did she say?"

"Why—ah—nothing of importance. I mean—that is—only impersonal talk. But I was wondering if you would approve of my inviting her to go for some, ah, refreshments, at some convenient time. Such appears to be the custom in her set."

"What you mean is, Thorny, would it be all right to say 'Come on and I'll buy you a coke.' Just do it casually, like that. Like any of the boys do."

"Oh!"

"Sure. Take her acceptance for granted. Just grab her arm and escort her on down toward the Autry house or some other hangout where there's a soda fountain. Talk and laugh a lot. Kid her along. Promise?"

"I shall try."

"Did she ask you about your matnematics work this morning?"

"Yes. She was quite interested —ah, how did you know, Sara Sue?"

Best Cough Remedy Is Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get the quickest imaginable relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never be without it in your home, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.
